Full Probe Favored by Both Parties

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3—A joint congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor debacle became a virtual certainty today as a survey showed both Democratic and Republican leaders agreed upon the need for a full disclosure of the facts and definite fixing of responsibility for this nation's vulnerability to the Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941.

Only one legislator, solicitous of the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the late commander in chief, whose role in the pre-war events was avoided by the official investigators, has raised his voice against the chorus of demands for a Capitol hill probe. He was Sen. Murray [D., Mont.], who said "nothing was to be gained" by further inquiry.

Congress meets Wednesday and there were predictions that the inquiry might be approved within a few days. The chairmen of the senate and house military and naval affairs committees undoubtedly would be selected to sit upon the special committee. They are Senators Thomas [D., Utah] and Walsh [D., Mass.] and Representatives May [D., Ky.] and Vinson [D., Ga.].

Preferable to Trials

Ranking minority members of the committees also would be accorded seats on the Pearl Harbor committee. They are Senators Austin [R., Vt.] and Tobey [R., N. H.] and Representatives Andrews [R., N. Y.] and Mott [R., Ore.].

The consensus among legislators was that a congressional inquiry would be preferable to open courts martial of Maj. Gen. Short and Rear Adm. Kimmel, the commanding officers at Hawaii.

It was noted that army and navy officers, presiding at a court martial of the two officers, probably would confine the scope of the hearing to facts determining the culpability of Short and Kimmel.

Questions Too Broad

Sen. Taft [R., O.] said far broader questions were presented in the investigation than could be solved by courts martial.

"It must be comprehensive, going into everything that led up to Pearl Harbor," he said in an interview. "Perhaps it should start back at the beginning of the Sino-Japanese war. It certainly should go back to the beginning of the German war. The responsibility for the greatest disaster in our history must be fixed."

Taft said the disclosures published Sunday in THE TRIBUNE, in an article by John T. Flynn fixing responsibility for the nation's lack of preparedness squarely upon the late President, made a congressional inquiry inevitable.

Probe Is Only Answer

"The fact that the insulting message by Japan, obviously a declaration of war, was in the hands of Mr. Roosevelt at 10 p. m. on Dec. 6, 16 hours before the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor," he remarked, "and was not followed by a warning of immediate danger to the commanding officers at Pearl Harbor, certainly shows that the reports by the army and navy up to date are not complete. A congressional investigation is the only answer."

Widen Search for Slayer of 2 Detectives

Search for the dirty faced, black gloved gunman who killed two Chicago detectives Sunday night at Clark st. and Lunt av. spread yesterday thruout the city, Illinois, and adjacent states, with every available policeman participating.

The victims, George H. Hellstern, 52, of 2312 Devon av., and his partner, Charles A. Brady, 36, of 6454 Wayne av., were shot as they approached the gunman at the intersection and sought to question him, after telling him they were policemen. Hellstern died on the spot. Brady died a few hours later in St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

Five Suspects Rounded Up

Police last night held four suspects in the detective bureau, and a fifth was being questioned at the Morton Grove station of the county highway police. Two of the suspects have artificial left hands on which they wear gloves.

The slayer, Brady told police before he died, wore a black rubber glove on his left hand.

Police Commissioner Allman said the department will not rest until the killer of the two detectives is captured.

Policemen swarmed thru the Rogers Park district, where the shooting occurred, their numbers augmented by squads from the detective bureau, the homicide division, and park district police.

Description of Slayer

Descriptions of the slayer, who was between 30 and 35 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, with a dirty, mottled complexion, were broadcast repeatedly to all police districts in Chicago as well as to police elsewhere in Illinois and in other states. He wore a blue shirt, dark trousers, and a dark slouch hat.

Inquiry disclosed that Hellstern, before he died, fired three shots at the slayer fleeing east in Lunt av. Brady fired two, and then handed his gun to a friend, Paul J. McMahon, who had run up. McMahon fired one more shot as the fleeing figure turned into an alley.

Slain on Son's Birthday

Brady's wife, Bernice, an expectant mother, who was at the hospital when he died, disclosed that her husband had sought to be off Sunday to take their son, Charles, to the ball game on his 13th birthday, but was unable to hire a substitute.

The Bradys had eight other children, Benedict, 11; Bernice, 9; Melissa, 7; Michael, 6; James, 5; Loretta, 3; Susan, 2, and Delia, 7 months. Brady, a former football player at Loyola university, had been a member of the department for three and a half years.

Hellstern, a veteran of 27 years in the department, is survived by his widow, Mary Agnes, and by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Wenger, 24,

Chicago Dad Slays Girl's Rich 'Friend'

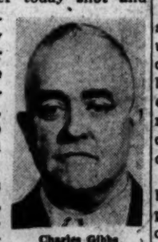
Cincinnati, O., Sept. 3 [Special]—A Chicago father today shot and killed his daughter's elderly sweetheart after forcing the daughter, Virginia Gibbs, 21, to lead him to the man's hotel room.



Charles Gibbs

The victim was Henry F. Smith, 65, wealthy co-owner of Henry F. Smith and Son company, a machinery concern of this city.

The father, who was arrested at a bus terminal about 2 a. m., a few minutes after the shooting, on information given police by the daughter, identified himself as Charles Gibbs, 54, and gave his address as 1505 Adams st., Chicago. He was booked by police on a charge of murder.

Says Victim Stole Family

Miss Gibbs was held as a material witness. Police said she told them she has been living under the name of Ann Carson in a home at 626 Dehli pike, and that Smith had given the home to her.

Gibbs told police he came here from Chicago yesterday expressly "to get Smith," and asserted Smith had "bought off the confidence of my family" and "taken my family away from me."

Gibbs said he was living with his family in Cincinnati three years ago when his daughter met Smith. He said she often returned from visits to Smith displaying money she said he had given her. When Gibbs objected, Virginia left home and went to live in a house provided for her by Smith, the father said.

"After that my wife went to live with Virginia and took the other children with her," Gibbs said. "That was too much for me, I left. For two years I have been living in Chicago, working in restaurants, and have been begging my wife and family to come back to me."

$75 a Week Allowance

Virginia said that Smith had been "generous" to her, giving her the house on Dehli pike and another house and giving her $75 each week. She said both she and her mother had received letters from Gibbs threatening violence unless they returned to him, and that she had turned these letters over to the federal bureau of investigation.

She said Gibbs appeared at her home shortly before midnight last night, pointed a gun at her, and ordered her to take him to Smith, whom he had never seen.

She went with her father to Smith's hotel, she said, protesting she knew he would shoot her if she refused. In the hotel she pointed to the door of Smith's room, saying, "He's in there."

Finds Door Unlocked

Gibbs told police the door was unlocked and he entered to find Smith in bed.

"I said, 'Well, old man, you've made enough trouble for me and my family,' and shot him before he could say a word."

Virginia said she fled down a corridor and after the shooting left the hotel with her father. She directed him to a bus terminal and then sought a policeman. Gibbs was arrested at the terminal. Smith was dead when police reached his room. He had been shot three times in the head.

Virginia told police that when she met Smith he told her he had been divorced for 7 years and was too old to marry again.

H. Christy Smith, adopted son and business associate of Smith, described his foster father as a philanthropist. He said Smith made a habit of giving large sums of money to unfortunate people.

HAD CHICAGO APARTMENT

Charles Gibbs rented a two room apartment Aug. 15 in a building at 1505 Adams st., paying two weeks' rent in advance, the janitor, Charles Cline, said yesterday. He said he last saw Gibbs Saturday afternoon and that when he went to the apartment Saturday night to collect the rent he found that all of Gibbs' personal effects had been removed. Gibbs was employed as a dishwasher in a restaurant near the Union station.

JAPAN LIFTS SWORD FROM WEAPON CLASS; MAKES IT ART OBJECT

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 3 (AP)—The sword, for centuries a leading symbol of Japanese militarism, drew a new definition from the Nipponese home ministry today.

Henceforth, explained a ministry spokesman, swords are to be looked upon as "objects of ancient art and cutlery and not in the sense of being a weapon." He added, however, that the allies would determine "whether hunting rifles and daggers are to be considered weapons, together with swords."

The spokesman, in a Radio Tokyo broadcast, gave the ministry's explanation of the "meaning of weapons" under surrender terms. Without mentioning the scores of allied heads that have been lopped off with swords since the beginning of hostilities, the spokesman lifted the long blades out of the weapon class. Swords, he acknowledged, are "close to the souls of the Japanese."

First A-Bomb Flared at 1,000 Ft., Say Japs

TOKYO, Sept. 1 [Delayed] (AP)—Residents of Hiroshima, war-swollen to 400,000 population, calmly watched the world's first atom bomb parachuted to their destruction, Japanese newspaper men who interviewed survivors said today.

The Hiroshimans were not the least alarmed when the atom-carrying B-29 appeared in the sky. They were accustomed to seeing 100-plane or larger formations en route to bomb other Japanese cities but did not expect their city was that day's target. So they watched the plane hover overhead; watched it drop its bomb, anchored to two parachutes.

City Completely Flattened

At about 1,000 feet altitude, the bomb exploded with a blinding flash.

Hiroshima was completely flattened, the Japanese newspaper men said. Wooden houses and modern buildings alike were smashed into the ground instead of being split apart, as in demolition bombings.

Houses were wrecked in adjacent suburbs. People 10 miles away were paralyzed by effects of the bombing.

Masayoshi Murakami of the Yomiuri Hochi Shimbun said one man gave a coherent account of the raid and displayed a half-inch burn on his arm.

"The burn spread up his arm and thruout his body. Two weeks lated he was dead," Murakami added.

Army Hdq. Wiped Out

HIROSHIMA, Sept. 4 [Tuesday]—(AP)—An official source said today that the Aug. 6 atom bombing of Hiroshima wiped out headquarters of the Japanese 2d army and killed some generals.

The official count of casualties on Aug. 20—two weeks after the bombing—was 33,000 dead, 30,000 missing, 13,950 seriously wounded, and 43,500 other wounded—a total of 120,450. By Sept. 1 the death toll had increased to 53,000.

Predicts 'Bumping' of Air Passengers Will End Soon

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 3 (AP)—Vice President A. J. Earling of Chicago & Southern airlines today predicted an early end to "bumping" of civilian passengers off commercial air lines. Earling said he believed a new directive would be issued this week by the air transport association at Washington ordering that once a passenger was aboard a plane he would be assured of reaching his destination.

Ex-Captives Tell More of 'Living Hell'

TOKYO BAY, Sept. 4 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Hundreds of allied prisoners from northern Japan streamed toward Yokohama today, where army authorities drew up lists of Japanese war criminals based on stories of the liberated that their prison camps were "a living hell."

The problem of releasing allied prisoners of war in camps outside the immediate zone of occupation grew more acute, and many internees were reported growing restless now that they know freedom is near.

A party of 462 prisoners released from Ashio prison camp, about 90 miles north of Tokyo, was expected to arrive at the Yokohama railway station soon.

The evacuation was arranged entirely by Japanese authorities in conjunction with the international Red Cross.

The army estimated that 2,000 prisoners have been released so far, and another 11,500 are awaiting their freedom in North Honshu and the northernmost home island of Hokkaido.

Many in Bad Shape

Eighty per cent of the liberated are in a serious condition and 411 will require long periods in bed, medical officers said. Some were so shocked they were unable to express themselves.

Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, directing prisoner recoveries for the navy, estimated there are 36,000 prisoners of war in Japan and that 8,000 of these are Americans. Virtually all are in "a tragic condition," he stated.

Stassen said that airmen and submarine personnel "definitely were tortured."

A naval task force commanded by Commodore Roger Simpson anchored off Hamamatsu, 159 miles southwest of Tokyo, and prepared to release 1,000 prisoners held in three camps, two near Nagoya and one near Hamamatsu itself.

Four military inquiry teams were questioning the liberated prisoners, many of them free for the first time since early in the war.

The Americans are being asked about their experiences in Japanese jails. Simultaneously, Japanese concentration camp authorities are being investigated as a result of reports of brutal, inadequate treatment at many of the prisoner of war camps.

Nurses Rushed Ashore

American nurses were rushed ashore at Yokohama to help establish the first American medical installation as more sick prisoners were brought in from the prison camps.

Among the hundreds of sick but happy American soldiers to arrive aboard the Benevolence were two children and four women—one 81 years old. They were British and American missionaries and their children who had been in a Tokyo civilian internment camp.

The Americans were Miss Lois Kramer, 54, daughter of Mrs. Lydia G. Kramer, Naperville, Ill., an evan-

Flagship Cleopatra Heads Fleet Into Big Naval Base

KANDY, Ceylon, Sept. 3 (AP)—Adm. Arthur Power, commander in chief of the British East Indies fleet, made a triumphant entry into Singapore today aboard his flagship, the cruiser Cleopatra, a Southeast Asia command bulletin disclosed tonight. The Cleopatra arrived at 11:40 a. m., the bulletin said.

With the admiral's flagship was the 6th minesweeping flotilla of the royal navy, which has been clearing mines from the straits of Malacca to permit passage of British troops assigned to occupy Malaya.

[A Reuters dispatch said the Cleopatra was accompanied by the Pelorus of the 6th minesweeping flotilla of the royal navy, the Indian ship Bengal and the royal fleet auxiliary Orange Leaf.]

Troops Ready to Land

Earlier dispatches from Calcutta said the troops were already aboard crowded transports waiting for clear passage. The minesweepers, supported by units of the British East Indies fleet, had moved into the strait between Malaya and Sumatra Sunday.

The bulletin added that the cruiser Sussex, flagship of Rear Adm. C. S. Holland, naval commander of the force which has been designated to occupy Singapore, would dock in the famed port tomorrow morning.

Occupation troops will be ready to land as soon as preliminary arrangements are concluded on board the Sussex on behalf of the supreme allied commander.

Japs Snipe at British

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 3 [Reuters]—Japanese "suicide" snipers, disregarding surrender orders, opened fire on landing parties of the British naval force which occupied Hong Kong last Thursday, dispatches from Hong Kong to Pacific fleet headquarters here said today.

For several hours there was fierce house to house fighting until the Japanese were killed or taken prisoner.

Nipponese Soldiers Look On as U. S. Cavalry Lands

BULLETIN

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4 [Tuesday] — (AP) — American occupation troops will enter Tokyo's metropolitan district Friday, the Japanese government reported today in a special bulletin broadcast by Domei agency. The bulletin said more than 15,000 troops would be involved in occupation movements into Kanagawa and Shizuoka prefectures, beginning today, and extending into Tokyo Friday. The broadcast said the initial Tokyo occupation force would number 3,350.

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 4 [Tuesday]—(AP)—American troops crossed the Tama river just outside Tokyo today, took over four more air fields, one of them only two miles from the Japanese capital, and prepared to make new landings on Kyushu and the Sagami bay area of Honshu to greatly extend their occupation zones.

An Associated Press correspondent radioed that a task force including six transports had entered Kagoshima bay of southern Kyushu and was prepared to occupy once great Kanoya air field and the town of Takusu. The six transports were escorted by warships including the destroyer David William Taylor, the flagship of Capt. Clyde M. Jensen, Peru, Ill., squadron commander.

20,000 Land Today

Radio Tokyo said approximately 20,000 American troops are scheduled to land today at Tachikawa army air base northwest of Tokyo and 15,640 will land in Kanakaga prefecture towns on or near Sagami bay tomorrow.

While the 8th army crossed the Tama, hitherto a demarcation line between victor and vanquished, the 1st cavalry division set up headquarters in Haramachida, a road junction midway between Tokyo and Atsugi air field, commanding three entrances into the capital.

[The Tama river is the western boundary of the city of Tokyo.]

Report Air Borne Landing

But as the 8th army poured more troops ashore and occupied Tateyamahojo at the tip of the eastern land arm for Tokyo bay, Gen. MacArthur still had given no signal for the entry into Tokyo.

The Japanese said that in addition to new landings in the bay area, advance air borne units of the United States army had begun arriving at Kanoya, Kyushu, but there was no confirmation.

The Americans moved across the Tama river and occupied these air fields: Chofu, two miles west of Tokyo; Tachikawa, nine miles west of the city, and Showa, a mile and a half north of Tachikawa. A fourth field, as yet unidentified, also was taken over.

Land on Peninsuls

A cavalry reconnaissance team of 2,500 men landed at Tateyamahojo, at the tip of the Chiba peninsula guarding the eastern approaches to Tokyo bay. Marines secured the position last week.

About 1,600 armed Japanese troops watched the smartly executed landing of Brig. Gen. Julian Cunningham's 112th reconnaissance team. A Japanese colonel and a navy captain formally agreed to the surrender and then complimented the Americans on their amphibious proficiency.

The navy issued instructions to its occupation forces to deal "with a firm hand," declaring "the Japanese will not be allowed to forget they are defeated and are paying the penalty for their aggression and treachery."

The Japanese also reported that American troops had entered the city of Chiba, across the bay east of Tokyo, and were negotiating with Hiratsuka officials for the occupation of that industrial city 34 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Lt. Gen. Eichelberger was bringing in more troops to take up the

REVEAL HITLER RECEIVED PAY OF $2,640,000 A YEAR

FRANKFURT ON MAIN, Sept. 3 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, who claimed to be the only chief of state in the world without a personal bank account, received an annual income of $2,640,000, secret German budget figures disclosed today.

In the third year of the war his income rose to nearly $6,000,000 as a result of his special benefits from German war time taxes.

In addition to his regular salary as chancellor, he received a flat $100,000 a year as president of the reich, and at least five other similar sums "to be spent as he saw fit," according to the financial branch of United States army headquarters.

Yanks and Reds Shoot It Out

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 3—A series of nocturnal brawls between GIs and Red army men, which has resulted in a number of Russian fatalities, has so alarmed United States military authorities over the possibility of a serious incident that hereafter road blocks will be installed at the principal intersections leading to the American zone.

Automobiles and pedestrians entering the zone after nightfall will be stopped and searched. All persons will be questioned and only those with business will be permitted to enter.

Adopt United States Proposal

A subcommittee of the kommandantur [allied command post] today adopted the American proposal to effect strict control over the movements of soldiers of the four armies outside their particular zones. This was done to avoid the possibility of a serious armed clash which admittedly might provoke dangerous complications.

"Russian soldiers are pretty cocky and figure that they can deal with everybody in the same high handed way they treat the German civilians," said my informant.

"They get a few drinks and try to grab cigarets, liquor or girls from the Yanks, and the Yanks don't play that way. When a Yank goes after his annoyer the Russian invariably reaches for his pistol or puts up his tommygun and frequently fires wildly.

World's Best Marksmen

"That's just suicide with GIs who are trained to pull and shoot to kill if a person makes a move toward his weapon, and the Yanks are the finest marksmen in the world. In every fracas thus far it was always the Russians who got hit. The GIs never were hurt. The brass hats are worried. They don't want to see a real fight with many casualties. They believe, and the British, French, and Russians apparently concur, that the best way to avoid trouble is to keep the troops of the different armies segregated."

task of occupying the capital area. Tokyo itself remained out of bounds.

Shigemitsu Sees MacArthur

Domei news agency reported that Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, who signed the surrender for Japan, had conferred at length with MacArthur in the allied commander's headquarters here.

A Japanese broadcast said preparations for MacArthur's entry into Tokyo, probably Sept. 10, were arranged in the capital by Maj. Gen. Richard J. Marshall, his deputy chief of staff.

MacArthur, as the first foreigner ever to rule Japan, evidently planned to use both the emperor and the existing government for carrying out his decrees. With the militarists eliminated, the industrialists and politicians are expected to return to influence, but some Japanese intellectuals said they hoped the American occupation would give impetus to democratic tendencies.

Three air force generals after low level reconnaissance flights over Tokyo, Yokohama, Shizuoka, Hamamatsu, and Nagoya said, "Everything in Japan is going to pot." The generals, Le May, Doolittle, and Twining, said they found bomb damage even greater than their own estimates.

Doolittle's Second Visit

"They made no attempt to repair bomb damage as the Germans did," Twining said. "There was no indication anywhere that they had even tried to clean up the mess."

"Especially memorable was the aircraft assembly plant on the east side of the river in Nagoya," Le May said. "We estimated 60 per cent damage, but actually there is not a thing there.

"The Mitsubishi plant at Nagoya was estimated as 95 per cent gone. It is 100 per cent gone, nothing is there but the steel framework and some concrete. This shows we were on the right track and did the job as we should have done it."

Doolittle viewed Japan for the first time since his famed B-25 raid April 18, 1942. He, like Le May and Twining, had spent hours studying photographs of bomb damage and enjoyed checking the real thing.

DEVEREUX, HERO OF WAKE ISLAND, IS STILL MISSING

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 3 (AP)—Authorities here today said that they have received no word regarding Lt. Col. James Devereux, commander of the heroic Wake Island garrison. His whereabouts has been the source of speculation since the Japanese surrender.

Lt. Col. Devereux

Authorities said that the lack of information does not indicate Devereux is not safe, since a number of Japanese prisoner of war camps in China have not yet been contacted.

A report here said that the former governor of Guam is among the latest batch of prisoners to be liberated in China and is now on his way home.

GEN. YAMASHITA IN PRISON WHERE YANKS SUFFERED

BAGUIO, Philippines, Sept. 3 (AP)—Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who once boasted he would force Gen. MacArthur to surrender, was behind bars in New Bilibid prison tonight, with the Manila press urging that he be executed as a war criminal.

The 6 foot Japanese general was locked up in the prison that formerly held American war prisoners after he surrendered his last 40,000 troops in the Philippines to Lt. Gen. Wainwright.

U. S. TO PAY SIX BRITONS HURT BY GAS BOMBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 3—A Southampton docker, J. E. Johnson, will collect $32,000 damages from the United States for injuries caused by mustard gas in the hold of an American ship in August, 1943, it was reported tonight. H. W. Sketcher, another docker, will get $22,000, and four others, less seriously injured, will get $1,000 to $3,000 each. The men were hurt while unloading mustard gas bombs. The transport and general workers' union negotiated with the American government on behalf of the dockers.

One of the survivors of Bataan told of the horror aboard the "Beecher's boat," a Japanese ship carrying American prisoners to Japan. He described how thirst crazed Americans were given almost no water and slashed their own veins and drank the blood, or killed their fellow captives in a mad rush for water.

Only 500 of the 1,500 Americans on the ship are believed to have survived the trip.

William Upton, radioman 2d class, of Mattoon, Ill., was shot down in a Helldiver over Formosa last Oct. 14, and fell in the bay. After two days on a life raft hoping a submarine would rescue him, he made shore and was captured by Jap soldiers. "They beat me to make me talk and at night they threw cold water on me." He finally was brought to Tokyo, where the treatment was better.

Corp. Harold Schroeder, B-29 gunner from Appleton, Wis., was shot down by eight Japanese fighters March 12. He was knocked out when he landed in the hills outside Tokyo. He awoke to find "Japs hovering all around." He was taken to Omori.

FRATERNIZING IN JAPAN O. K., SAYS EICHELBERGER

BY DONALD STARR
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 3—Occupation of the Tokyo area will be the model for the remainder of the country, according to Lt. Gen. Eichelberger, commander of the 8th army, in his first press conference since the occupation began Thursday.

Lt. Gen. Eichelberger

Instructions to occupation troops do not forbid fraternization, Eichelberger said, but he added looting or other violations of military law would be dealt with severely.

The occupying forces will disarm the Japanese military as American troops fan out, but whether collections of sidearms will compel the Japanese to forfeit their Samurai swords was not determined. The general expressed belief the officers' swords should be taken up.

Dump Guns in Sea

Two suggestions have been made for the disposal of Jap rifles. The first was to allow the men to take them home as souvenirs and the second was to collect and dump them in Tokyo bay. Eichelberger believes they should be dumped in the sea.

Remembering the GI's "midnight requisitions" of material thru four years of war, he was pessimistic.

"Some of the boys can hide a 105 mm. howitzer under their shirts," he said, with a grin.

Eichelberger said he was not surprised by the calm attitude of troops coming face to face with the Nipponese. Admitting the people at home react differently, he said American tradition never countenanced punishment of civilians after surrender.

Screen War Criminals

The general expressed the belief that war criminals should be carefully screened because it was his conviction that civilians are not always in sympathy with the irresponsible acts of the fanatical militarists. He said that during the trouble in Siberia between the White Russians and the Red revolutionists in 1918, the Japanese guarding the party of pro-czarists turned on them when the Reds attacked and killed all their charges before establishing a firing line against the Bolshevik attackers.

After having toured the area over which he was to have led assault troops, Gen. Eichelberger said that he believed the Japs would have had the man power to cause plenty of trouble and heavy losses if the Americans had invaded Japan.

Had Plenty of Planes

He estimated Japanese troop strength in the Kanto [Tokyo] plain at 20 divisions, including two armored divisions. He said that before the Japanese surrender offer the Americans planned to bring their own armored divisions ashore.

"They had plenty of planes but little gasoline," he said. "If we had made an assault landing in the face of opposition we undoubtedly would have found plenty of undersea obstacles and land mines.

"They have an unlimited number of men and they are plenty brave, as you know," he said.

Asked whether Gen. MacArthur had planned a diversionary blow at China simultaneously with the invasion of the Japanese home islands, Eichelberger pointed out that the commander in chief had never made a move off the most direct northern route to Tokyo.

14 Jap Soldiers Killed in Clashes with Burmese

RANGOON, Burma, Sept. 3 (AP)—Fourteen Japanese soldiers, including three officers, have been killed in two clashes with Burmese patriots at a village 35 miles north of here since the Japanese surrender, Southeast Asia headquarters said tonight. In the first action the Japanese surrounded a number of villagers, but were forced to withdraw after 12 of their number were killed. The following night 20 Japanese attacked the village and two were killed before the force retreated.

Sets a Record

Maj. Guy Cain, pilot of the C-54 plane which carried photographs of the Japanese surrender between Japan and the United States in 21 hours 40 minutes, cutting in half the time established in 1931 by the Pangborn-Hearndon flying team.

The plane was piloted by Maj. G. E. Cain, of Seattle, and carried officers and men who photographed the surrender ceremonies.

The first original pictures of the surrender to be provided American newspapers came on the plane. Associated Press Photographer Frank Filan, Pulitzer prize winner for his Tarawa campaign pictures, sent undeveloped negatives taken aboard the U. S. S. Missouri.

BYRNES LEAVING FOR 1ST SESSION OF PEACE BOARD

Washington, D. C. Sept. 3 [Special]—State Secretary Byrnes is expected to leave here tomorrow by ship for England and the opening in London a week from today of the first session of the foreign ministers' council, charged with the writing of a peace for western Europe.

The council, composed of the United States secretary of state and the foreign ministers of Britain, Russia, France, and China, was established at the Big Three Potsdam conference. Major problems before the council include disposition of Italian colonies, Libya, Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, and several islands of the Mediterranean with opinion reported divided between their outright return to Italy and the setting up of trusteeships under the allies.

In addition to drawing up a peace treaty for Italy, the council also will draft peace treaties for Germany's Balkan satellites and Finland and will tackle the problem of creating international commissions to govern Europe's inland waterways. Determination of Germany's western borders and international control of the industrially rich Ruhr valley are also on the agenda.

Decisions of the London council are subject to approval by the home governments of the Big Five and later to ratification by all the allied nations.

IMPERIAL DIET OF JAPAN MEETS WITH HIROHITO

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 3 (AP)—Radio Tokyo reported tonight that the 88th imperial diet formally opened Tuesday morning [Japanese time] in Tokyo in the presence of Emperor Hirohito.

[A dispatch from Yokohama said Gen. MacArthur ruled today that war correspondents could attend the opening session of the Japanese diet without restrictions, after newsmen had protested a provision that they be searched at the door.]

The emperor left the imperial palace with the imperial retinue at 10:40 a. m. [8:40 p. m. Monday, Chicago war time] for the house of peers. The opening session of the diet was concluded swiftly and the emperor returned to the palace at 11:15 a. m., said the broadcast.

There was no mention of what transpired in the diet.

"Don't Know Wrong"

A long and persistent Japanese critic of his country's aggressions said yesterday that "in Japan a complete overhauling of education is necessary to pound into the people's heads the laws of humanity—the difference between right and wrong."

It was 88 year old Yukio Ozaki speaking as he arrived in Tokyo for opening of the diet, concerning which he also was caustically critical as falling short of "constitutional government."

Ozaki's tongue had been quiet since he let it slip in the general election of 1942—he criticized some official and was sentenced to eight months in jail, but was let off when the Japanese Supreme court reversed his conviction.

Calls on Diet Speaker

A Tokyo radio broadcast heard by the federal communications commission [FCC] said Ozaki called on Speaker Shimada of the house of representatives and declared Japan stood at the threshold of rebirth.

"I am inclined to believe," Ozaki said, "the people of today do not know right from wrong. Have they not confused victory and defeat with right and wrong?

"Do they not believe that the strong are right and the weak are wrong? Such thoughts are contrary to the law of humanity and are the way of animals and not human beings."

The present membership of the diet: Government's Totalitarian party [Dai Nippon Seijikai], 377 seats; holdovers from former Totalitarian Imperial Rule Assistance association, 21; so-called independents, 26, and vacancies, 42.

CHIANG INVITES ALL PARTIES TO REBUILD CHINA

Says Private Armies Will Not Be Tolerated

CHUNGKING, Sept. 3 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek called on China's wildly celebrating millions tonight to crown their victory over Japan by building a new, united China as "a model democratic state in the far east."

Now that the eight years of bitter warfare are over, Chiang said in a V-J message, "We shall brook no further delay in the inauguration of constitutional democracy."

In a partial concession to Communist demands, the war leader said the government would consult leaders of all parties before convoking the national assembly at an early date.

He promised equal legal status to all parties, but said that private armies or armies of political parties could not be tolerated within China's borders.

Pledges Better Livelihood

To workers and farmers, he pledged a better livelihood, with greater employment; to war veterans, he offered grants of farm land; and to the people generally he promised freedom of speech and of person.

Chiang told his people that "our foundation as a modern state is the weakest among the united nations. The most important condition for national unity is the nationalization of all armed forces."

The Communists—with whose leader, Mao Tse-tsung, the generalissimo has been conferring here—have demanded that the assembly be convoked by an all party conference, rather than by Chiang's government party alone. They also have said they will not disband their army until they receive an effective share in the government.

In "Preliminary Stages"

A Communist spokesman said that the talks with Chiang still were in the "preliminary stages."

Chiang promised an early end to war time press censorship "so that the people may have freedom of speech" and said the government would promulgate a law permitting freedom of political assembly and organization.

Chiang asserted that "only a united nation can safeguard democracy, mobilize the people's will and strength, and protect its independence and integrity. Only a united nation can accomplish the task of national reconstruction."

NAVY LETS MEN WEAR CIVVIES WHILE OFF DUTY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP)—The navy announced tonight that its regulations on the wearing of uniforms has been eased, with the end of the war.

Naval personnel within the continental United States and on ships within its waters are authorized to wear civilian clothes outside working hours, while on shore leave, or other off-duty status. During the war, wearing of the uniform had been mandatory except while exercising or at home, but if four or more persons were present in the home the uniform had to be worn.

The army said there had been no change in its regulations governing the wearing of uniforms.

INFORMALITY OF YANKS' ATTIRE BAFFLES 'JAPS

Expected MacArthur to Show Strain

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 3—The following letter to the editor of Mainichi, Tokyo Japanese language newspaper, seems to need no comment.

"I am sure that I am not the only one who saw the photographs of Marshal MacArthur as he arrived at Atsugi, as printed in the papers, and felt strange at his light attire.

"I had supposed that he would act most solemnly and under tension because it marked his first step on the soil of Japan proper as the supreme commander of the victorious allied forces, but how did he and the members of his party appear?

Without Decoration

"They appeared clad in short pants and open shirts, without ties and with not a single decoration on their breasts. Instead of the saber they carried pipes, and, in short, they were in attire as if watering a garden.

"From any angle they did not seem to be in attire befitting the arrival of the supreme commander in Japan.

"Our prince premier, in the course of his instructions to the people, said to the effect that unless we give up and renew our customs it would be impossible to rebuild Japan. The United States places efficiency above formality, and it is considered likely that the United States will deal with us in the same efficient manner as marked the arrival of Marshal MacArthur's party.

"Get Rid of Formalism"

"In comparison with this we regret to note that we still continue to have formalism with its waste. This is especially so in official circles. The government offices should first get rid of formalism so as not to stand aghast at American efficiency principles. To be laughed at for comic formalism and low efficiency is no way to maintain the honor of our people."

Tokyo papers today carried complete stories of yesterday's surrender and also had photographs of Gen. MacArthur and the Japanese delegates as the former addressed the Japanese.

Note: MacArthur wore long khaki trousers. British and some other delegates at the surrender ceremonies wore shorts.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS SEIZE EX-BRIGADIER IN NAZI PARTY ARMY

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 3 (AP)—Joseph Ackerman, a former brigadier in Adolf Hitler's brownshirted Storm Troopers and described as a "dangerous party man," has been arrested by American troops in a remote mountain town near Salzburg, it was announced today.

When Ackerman was picked up he was traveling with a German woman and was using the papers of her dead fiance, a soldier who was killed while fighting in the German army. She was not named in the announcement but is being detained for questioning.

Ackerman joined the nazi party in 1925 and was a former reichstag member from Coblenz.

TRUMAN CALLED VERY WISE MAN BY PARIS PRESS

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 3—President Truman, who criticized the French press for its failure to give a square deal to the United States at his recent White House reception for French newspaper men, today was hailed as a very intelligent man by the French press. The newspapers applauded his proposal that the United States ought not to ask any repayment of the 42 billion dollar lend-lease debt. They had been quite angry with the President for his criticism.

All Paris papers said that if the house of representatives and the senate have sense enough to listen to Mr. Truman the world will not be poisoned after this war as it was after the last one by the question of inter-allied debts.

Here is what one paper, Aurore, says:

"Debts are intolerable when they are contracted not to equip a nation but to be burned up in smoke and bombs over battle fields. In recognizing this Mr. Truman has showed an astonishing political acumen—one could say an extraordinary sense of political values."

ATTLEE TRACES START OF WAR TO MANCHURIA

'Destroyed Authority of League of Nations'

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee tonight blamed Japan for starting World War II by invading Manchuria in 1931 and cautioned that victory will be "empty and short lived" if the conquering nations forget "the heavy responsibility that our victory entails."

In a broadcast speech on the sixth anniversary of Britain's entry into the war, Attlee asserted "it was the Japanese action in Manchuria which started the train of events which culminated in the World war."

Failures to deal with this first breach of the peace "destroyed the authority of the league of nations," he said.

[Secretary of War Stimson who in 1931 was secretary of state sought to lead in a settlement of the Manchurian affair, but failed to obtain the support of Great Britain, the other nine power treaty signers, or effective action by the league of nations.]

Free Governments

Attlee asserted that Britain's "sole endeavor" in Europe will be "to enable the will of the people to prevail and to assist in the establishment everywhere of governments resting on popular consent.

"We should pledge ourselves anew to build up a new world order in which all nations may dwell in security . . . in which war will be banished," he added.

He said the nation was emerging from "six years of waste, for, from the point of view of the progress of civilization, war is nothing but waste."

Attlee said that British demobilization would be speeded to gain an additional 5 million workers in industry and bring production to the 1939 pre-war level, but added that the war time draft must continue for an army of occupation.

Draft Released War Workers

Meanwhile, he added, released war workers between the ages of 18 and 30 will be drafted to meet continuing military needs. He said that "for the rest of the year an average of 45,000" men and women will leave the services every week.

Attlee said that the most difficult period of occupation "is likely to be during the coming winter when the inevitable shortages in food, fuel, and raw material will be disturbing influences."

"But we must take our share in establishing conditions in Europe which will allow reconstruction without violence," he added.

He said that the British "also have commitments in southeast Europe in the Mediterranean and in the middle east."

"These responsibilities," he added, "fall to us as victors."

Educated Jay

Mrs. Ida L. Flynn of Lansing feeding her pet bluejay, which she credits with the ability to tune a radio.

Jake, the sort of blue jay that would fall out of a tree and sprain an ankle, has found a home with Mrs. Ida L. Flynn, of 18286 Sherman st., in Lansing, because he tunes the radio to programs she likes.

"Scratch that swing band, Jake," Mrs. Flynn said when a reporter visited her home yesterday. By scratching the dial, Jake changed stations to music on the classical side.

Jake tunes out speeches and baseball games, but tries to sing and dance when he happens to dial an orchestra that tickles his fancy.

Mrs. Flynn found Jake in the yard behind her home in June, walking around in circles on one foot. She took him into the house, bandaged his injured leg, and put him in a canary cage that temporarily was unoccupied.

When she permitted him some freedom in the kitchen, where she has a small portable radio, Mrs. Flynn discovered the bird's ability to dial stations. Next to eating, Jake likes music best.

BRITISH UNION TELLS PLAN TO RUN TRANSPORT

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 3—A blueprint for a unified British transport system and large scale nationalization was offered in a report issued tonight by the general council of the Trades Union congress.

The report, which will be submitted to the TUC annual conference at Blackpool next week, asks that all British transport services—rail, canal, road haulage, road passenger, ports, docks, coastwise shipping, and internal airways—be operated under government control as one system. It calls also for immediate state ownership of railways, including the London passenger transport board, which covers surface and subway transport in the London area, main canals, a section of road haulage, coastwise liners, and internal airways.

Asks War Time Rule

The council adds that the government should retain war time power to control all transport services not immediately required by the state. This would include highway passenger transport services outside London, part of the road haulage service, and ports and docks.

The reason given for delaying complete state ownership of all transport services is that "so many separate companies and individual operators are involved that such a reorganization must inevitably take time to complete." The report estimates the capitalization of the British transport industry at $14,000,000,000 and the number of workers employed at more than 2,000,000.

Asks Transport Authority

The report proposes that a national transport authority should be set up to ensure efficient operation of all services acquired by the state and that operating boards should be established for each section of industry.

TUC represents nearly 7,000,000 British trade unionists who supply the Labor party with a considerable part of its finances, and the general council's recommendations are expected to carry weight with the government in formulating post-war policies. Its report might well be the basis for the nationalization of transport bill to be introduced in parliament.

Get in Big Money During New Deal Era

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3—A summary of evidence being collected by treasury investigators for the house ways and means committee indicated today that three members of the family of the late President Roosevelt collected more than 2½ million dollars from various sources during the 12 years he occupied the White House.

Two of these—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow, and Elliott, second oldest son, had earning capacities of zero when Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated in March, 1933. James, the eldest son, began cashing in on the prestige of his father when the latter was governor of New York.

$900,000 Taken in

Mrs. Roosevelt's income in the 1933-'45 period has been placed at approximately $900,000, most of which, she says, she has given to charity and projects in which she was interested. Elliott garnered more than $1,175,000 in loans, salaries, and commissions.

James, already a prosperous insurance executive in 1933, picked up an additional $460,000 in the subsequent 12 years, according to the survey.

Still in Big Pay Bracket

Mrs. Roosevelt and James continue in the high income group despite the loss of their White House contacts. She has another five years of a daily column contract, renewed just before the President's death; writes for a women's magazine, and has been reported considering a lucrative radio contract. James, placed on inactive service as a colonel of the marine corps Aug. 15, always has continued to receive rich earnings on the huge amount of insurance he sold.

Elliott, who also retired as a brigadier general on Aug. 15, faces financial difficulties, if the treasury is ready to rule, as reported, that he must pay income tax on the loans he obtained. In the case of a $200,000 loan from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, written off as a bad debt by Hartford when he collected only $4,000, the tax would be approximately $90,000 plus $25,000 interest, it was estimated.

Failed at Harvard

James is 36. At 22, he had spent four years at Harvard and quit, having failed to be graduated. His father was governor of New York and already was being hailed by political experts as the Democratic Presidential candidate of 1932. James decided on the insurance field in Boston for the beginning of his spectacular career, and despite his tender age and inexperience, he was made a vice president of the Southern corporation at $15,000 a year. Later he organized his own firm of Roosevelt & Sargent.

The firm became highly successful. One of the larger pieces of business it handled was a 2½ million dollar policy on the life of George Washington Hill, president of the American Tobacco company. Three weeks after Mr. Roosevelt was elected President in November, 1932, James later admitted, he wired his father at Warm Springs to expect a visit from Hill and to take "especially good care" of the visitor.

New Clients Obtained

Clients of Roosevelt & Sargent, most of them secured after President Roosevelt entered the White House, included Armour & Company, Columbia Broadcasting company, the Commercial Credit company, the Domestic Finance company, the Eastern Steamship company, Esquire-Coronet company, the First National Bank of Boston, Hayden, Stone & Company, Lehman Brothers, National Distillers company, the National Shawmut bank of Boston, the New England Power company, Transcontinental & Western Airways, and the West Indies Sugar company.

There were frenzied complaints from competing insurance brokers that business was being taken away from them, and some legal complaints were filed, but no court ever found that the President's son had either promised or obtained White House favors in return for insurance contracts. James himself always insisted that he offered better insurance service than his competitors and that he never was asked to extend political favors.

Income Return Published

A Saturday Evening Post article by Alva Johnston in 1938 estimated that young Roosevelt's income had ranged from $250,000 to 2 million dollars a year. This brought from James the only publication of income tax reports thus far authorized by any member of the Roosevelt family. In an article in Collier's, he revealed he had reported yearly income ranging from $27,714 to $49,167 from 1933 to 1937, inclusive, totaling $172,978 in the five years.

In 1938, altho he had then left the insurance business, his income from insurance commissions was $42,000. James later told an interviewer, and the inquiry indicates that it has remained above the $25,000 yearly mark until the present date.

Meanwhile, James had branched out into many other fields. In 1935, he was elected president of the National Grain Yeast corporation, which was doing a million dollar a year business, at a $35,000 yearly salary. He resigned after a few months, however.

In 1938, he accepted a vice presidency of Samuel Goldwyn Productions at a reported salary of $750 a week. He was promoted to the presidency the following year but resigned thereafter to head his own company in making a movie juke box. James also was White House secretary to his father for a period at $10,000 a year.

In November, 1940, James reported for duty as a captain in the marine corps. He accumulated 26 months of combat duty and was promoted to colonel, receiving the navy cross and several other decorations.

3 DAY HOLIDAY IN ILLINOIS LEADS TO DEATH FOR 34

Illinois, with 34 deaths, last night led the nation in a compilation of fatal accidents laid to the three day Labor day celebration which jammed highways in the Chicago area with the greatest number of travelers since 1942. The nation's total number of deaths from accidents in the three days was estimated at 341, compared with 245 for the similar period a year ago.

The Illinois deaths included 18 in traffic and 11 in miscellaneous accidents. Five persons were drowned, including two Chicago area children. Richard De Bock, 13, of 1127 Argyle st., was drowned in the lake off Wilson av. after a playmate took an inner tube he was using. Rosemary Krasevoc, 16, of 604 Buchanan st., Gary, was drowned in the lake off the Sullivan st. beach in Gary.

In addition to the highway travelers, 125,000 spent the day on beaches, 100,000 thronged Lincoln park zoo, and 150,000 were in the forest preserves. The three day holiday brought 119,490 service men and women to the four Chicago service men centers.

THREE WARDS ELECT ALDERMEN TODAY; 2 EXPECT HEAVY VOTE

Ballots and supplies were delivered yesterday in the 31st, 36th, and 50th wards, where aldermanic elections will be held today. The polls will open at 6 a. m. and close at 5 p. m.

Heavy voting is expected in the 36th and 50th wards. In the 36th Republicans are backing Frank R. Ringa. Democratic forces are reported to be split between Louis P. Garippo and Alex Noto. There are three other candidates — Frank A. Podraza, William P. Wollpert, and Anthony P. Ross Jr. In the 50th ward the opponents are Jens M. Jensen, Republican committeeman, and Jerome Huppert, head of the ward's Young Democrats.

In the 31st ward observers believe State Sen. Thomas E. Keane, a Democrat, will dispose of his two opponents with little trouble. The Republicans failed to put up a candidate, and both Joseph A. Ciacura and Peter J. Slodowski are running against Keane without any regular organization support.

Chicago Heights to Elect Judge, Court Clerk Today

Chicago Heights voters today will elect a judge and a clerk of the city court for six year terms in what observers predict will be closely contested races. Robert A. Meire Jr., Democratic incumbent, will seek reelection as judge against Homer Abbott, the Republican candidate. Clerk Martin P. Dolowy, also a Democrat, will run against Chris D. Gregory, Republican. Polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

APARTMENT LOOTED

Three fur coats, two diamond rings, and some household articles, all valued at $915, were stolen in a burglary of his apartment, George Demapis, 4927 West End av., told police yesterday.

Can the rusting of steel really be prevented?

WE DON'T BLAME you if you're a wee bit skeptical. You've seen so many steel products made prematurely useless by rust, the thief that robs Americans of a billion dollars yearly!

But the war has changed all that. The war and a phenomenal new rust-protection for steel known as CORRONIZING.

During the war—from Arctic cold to sizzling, humid tropics—CORRONIZING has been proved sensational. And it may soon bring you washing machines, water heaters, automobiles, building hardware, tools, wire fencing, dozens of steel items that can outlast any you've ever owned by 4 to 1!

You see, CORRONIZING defies rust a remarkable new way. It forms a tissue-thin alloy "armor" five layers in depth. This becomes a part of the steel, and far outlasts other rust-protecting coatings.

For steel products with the utmost in safety, utility and lasting good looks—watch for those that will be made of "Corronized" steel. They will soon be offered by America's more progressive factories and dealers. Automobiles—famous for leading the parade—may be among the first to bring you this sensational advantage. Remember the name—CORRONIZING!

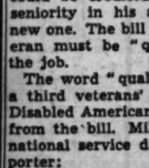
VETS AND LABOR HEAD FOR CLASH OVER JOB ISSUE

Knutson Bill Expected to Bring Showdown

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP)—Labor unions and veterans' organizations appear to be headed for a clash over peace time jobs.



Rep. Knutson

That opinion was expressed today by many persons in Washington who are concerned over employment problems that will come with the return of veterans. They don't want to be quoted by name, but all say that legislation demanded by veterans' groups never will be accepted willingly by organized labor and that so far no acceptable compromise has been found.

When the showdown will come no one can say, but it may be fairly soon, over a bill by Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.].

Bill Opposed by Labor

This bill has the support of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The American Legion, while not specifically indorsing the Knutson bill, has agreed with its principles. These two service organizations have a combined membership of almost 3 million and are growing so rapidly they soon may double in size. Organized labor, with its 15,300,000 members, is opposed to the measure.

The Knutson bill would give veterans seniority credit for time spent in service, with time and a half for the sixth day and double time for Sundays.

A veteran could use his credit in going back to his old job or he could be credited with this much seniority in his attempt to get a new one. The bill adds that the veteran must be "qualified" to hold the job.

The word "qualified" has caused a third veterans' organization, the Disabled American Veterans, to shy from the bill. Millard W. Rice, its national service director, told a reporter:

"The law is too ambiguous. What does 'qualified' mean? It would give either an employer or a union a loophole if they didn't want a veteran. They could say 'He isn't qualified,' and that would be that."

Two Examples Given

Here are two sample arguments on the seniority issue:

Veterans—Suppose a girl went into a war plant. She worked seven or eight months before V-J day. She was laid off during reconversion, but she still is on the seniority list.

And since many of the fighting forces had no regular jobs before they were drafted this girl war worker would hold seniority and keep her job ahead of any veteran.

"This doesn't seem fair to us," James W. Cannon, general counsel of the V. F. W., said in an interview. "Under our present setup a veteran going into an organized plant is hopelessly penalized.

"He will have a hard time getting a job and he'll be the first to go when the cut comes."

Labor—The idea that a man should be given seniority credit for his military service when he returns to his old job long has been accepted by organized labor, with the exception of the railroad brotherhoods, which contend their seniority rules are too complex.

Labor balks at going further and giving a veteran seniority in a job he never held before.

LABOR SHORTAGE ON FARMS IS LAID TO BUREAU FEUD

Brewster Attacks Use of War Prisoners

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3—Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] charged today that farm jobs are going begging or are being filled by German war prisoners because the department of agriculture and the United States employment service "aren't even speaking to each other."

Sen. Brewster

Brewster's attack on the federal agencies came during a senate finance committee hearing on the administration's bill boosting state unemployment compensation benefits to a maximum of $25 for 26 weeks. Federal funds would supplement existing state benefits.

At the conclusion of the hearing the committee telegraphed governors of the 48 states to ascertain the effect of the bill on state benefits. Witnesses representing state unemployment compensation systems have charged the additional federal amounts would have to be deducted from state benefits.

Jealous of Each Other

After witnesses from American Federation of Labor unions had testified the bill was needed because millions of unemployed will need the added funds to help maintain the nation's economy, Brewster asserted the federal employment service cannot funnel unemployed war workers to farm jobs because of an "utter lack of coördination" with the agriculture department.

"They aren't even speaking to each other," Brewster said. "They're as jealous of each other as the army and navy. The result is that while we have thousands—if not millions—apply to the USES for work, the agriculture department is going on and trying to recruit its own."

"Nevertheless," countered Brewster, "1,500 people from Kentucky have come willingly to Maine in the last few weeks to help dig our potato crop. And they aren't war prisoners."

Ordered Sent by George

The telegrams to state governors were ordered sent by Sen. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the finance committee, after Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] had said there was no point in taking the bill to the senate for action unless its impact on the state unemployment compensation systems were known in advance.

The bill, written by Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], provides for voluntary agreements between states and the federal government under which the states would accept the added federal funds to supplement existing benefits.

One committee member told a reporter that the Kilgore bill has little chance of being reported by the committee in its present form. Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] has suggested its terms be changed to permit the federal government to put up money to extend the duration of state benefits, and not to increase the amounts being paid.

Indications today were that Vandenberg's suggestions would be incorporated in the bill. The committee will conclude its hearings tomorrow and will meet in closed session Thursday to redraft the measure.

Auto Crash Derails Train; One Killed and 13 Injured

Brookville, O., Sept. 3 (AP)—The two locomotives of the Pennsylvania railroad's Spirit of St. Louis and seven of its cars jumped the track today when the train struck an automobile. One person, Mrs. Hazel Cain, 36, of Lewisburg, a passenger in the automobile, was killed. Thirteen persons on the train were injured.

3,143 ARRIVE FROM INDIA ON NAVY TRANSPORT

10,000 Troops Land at Eastern Ports

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—The first troopship to return from the China-Burma-India theater since the end of the war—the naval transport Gen. Patrick—docked at Staten Island today after an 11,000 mile trip from Calcutta with 3,143 troops and civilians.

Eleven other ships arrived from Europe and docked in New York harbor, in Boston, and at Newport News, Va., bringing the total of returnees for the day to almost 10,000. The Lanahan, scheduled to dock at Newport News, was still at sea.

Hero Is Tired of Army

A congressional medal of honor winner who killed between 15 and 20 Germans, captured 10 others and liberated an American squad, was among the veterans returning from Europe.

He is Tech. Sgt. Joseph E. Schaefer, 27, of Queens, who was one of 745 service men aboard the Troopship George M. Bibb.

"I want to go home, settle down, get a job, and get married," Schaefer said, adding he had had "enough of army life now that the war is over."

Wears Purple Heart

His medal of honor citation, presented by Maj. Gen. W. R. Robinson of the 7th army corps July 16, in Neurenstedt, Germany, states that on Sept. 24, 1944, armed only with an M-1 automatic rifle, he "killed between 15 and 20 Germans, wounded as many, took 10 prisoners, and liberated an American squad which had been captured earlier in battle."

Schaefer also wears the Purple Heart with two clusters, the Presidential citation, bronze star, and silver star.

Also docking in New York were the Huddleston, with 427 troops; Marine Raven, 3,095; Louisa M. Alcott, 11; James Parker, 3,004; James L. Breck, 21; Southwest Victory, 28, and Arthus Huddle, 15.

TODAY'S ARRIVALS

Seven transports bringing home more than 6,000 service men from Europe are scheduled to dock tomorrow at New York, Boston, and Newport News. Army units and troop designations include:

At New York—[Aboard Blomfontein] 858 troops, undesignated units. [Aboard William Wilkins] 110 miscellaneous troops. [Aboard Nick Stoner] 24 troops for reassignment or discharge. [Aboard Henry Wynkoop] 15 reassignment troops.

At Boston—[Aboard Bienville, originally due tomorrow] 2,536 troops including the 605th, 1252d, 1259th engineer combat battalions; headquarters and headquarters detachment of 188th quartermaster battalion; 672d, 695th ordnance ammunition companies. [Aboard General Bliss, originally due tomorrow] 2,349 troops including headquarters and headquarters company of 16th and 20th tank destroyer groups; headquarters and headquarters company of 1191st engineer combat group; 823d quartermaster fumigation and bath company; 887th, 888th, 889th, 915th, and 8734 air engineer squadrons; 712th air materiel squadron; 64th airdrome squadron; 87th, 1071st, and 3199th army postal units; headquarters 495th quartermaster battalion; 658th engineer light equipment company.

Seventeen troops of undesignated units will land at Newport News aboard the G. Wythe.

OWI Stops Publishing Daily Paper in Manila

MANILA, Sept. 3 (AP)—Free Philippines, the office of war information's free circulation newspaper, ceased publication as a daily today, but will continue as a semi-weekly tabloid airmail edition for provincial distribution. Free Philippines began publication last Feb. 9. The city now has 32 commercial dailies.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 4—The Intrepid's Last Mission

ON the evening of Sept. 4, 1804, the 75 ton ketch Intrepid sailed into the harbor of Tripoli on one of the most audacious missions in American naval annals.

She carried 15,000 pounds of powder and 250 13 inch shells. She was commanded by Lt. Comdr. Richard Somers and manned by six officers and seamen who had volunteered for the mission. The plan was to sail her in close to the Tripolitan fleet, ignite her explosive cargo and, while the crew escaped in a small boat, allow her to drift in among the enemy ships and wreak what havoc she could.

The 14 gun schooner Nautilus, Somers' regular command, followed the Intrepid into the harbor. She was to pick up the fire ship's crew after they escaped.

Watchers on the Nautilus, peering into the darkness ahead, suddenly saw flame flash into the sky. An instant later they were rocked by a terrific concussion. In the darkness and silence that followed they waited tensely for a signal from the Intrepid's crew. None came, altho the Nautilus stood by thru all the night.

Because the Intrepid blew up several hundred yards short of the spot where Somers had intended to ignite her, it is supposed the Americans faced capture and deliberately destroyed themselves and their ship rather than allow their store of powder to fall into the hands of the ammunition starved enemy. This had been their intention in the event their main plan failed.

The loss of the Intrepid, a converted craft which had been captured from the Tripolitans, was an episode of the Barbary troubles that marked the first decades of American national life.

The North African pirate chiefs sold "protection" to maritime powers using the Mediterranean and would capture ships and enslave crews if the proper fees were not forthcoming. The United States and several other powers fought many small scale wars with the pirates before the practice was ended.

BEACH ATTACK'S 'THE M'COY,' WAR WRITER ASSERTS

Only Casualties Lacking at Foster Av., He Says

BY THOMAS MORROW

[Tribune war correspondent who landed with the marines on Iwo and Okinawa islands.]

There was something very unusual about the marine attack on Foster avenue beach last night. When the assault was over all the marines were still alive.

But, being marines, they were not satisfied—even in a simulated attack—without TNT charges booming ahead of the incoming assault craft and blowing up on the beach. And they reacted in the same cheery way they did while shoving the Jap back on his front porch for a knockout punch.

One lad saw a neighbor lying atop an unexploded TNT charge and told him: "You'd better roll over about 5 feet. That thing might hurt you if it went off."

Tactically the show is the McCoy and from a spectator standpoint a swell exhibition and a cross section of war. There are planes diving at the beach thru simulated ack-ack, marines crawling across the beach letting off small arms, machine guns, and flame throwers.

Way Wars Should Be

Practically it has ever so many advantages over an actual invasion. You do not have to go down a landing net to get aboard the landing boats and dukws. There is no travel under 16 inch guns on battleships which make considerable noise. There is nothing whistling toward the landing boats, it is all going away, and the action is fought the way wars should be—in 15 minute periods.

Conversation among the troops is different, too, as the landing craft mill around the rendezvous point. There is no cheery repartee like: "When this is over I will drink your whisky ration," and no retort: "You will like hell. I'll take your dog tags home when I go."

Lt. Paul Cramer, 98 E. Maynard av., Columbus, O., who still has a hole in his rib where he got hit on Saipan with the 4th division, was a little worried about going back to Ohio State. He thought football might help him to settle down if he could get some special pads for the bad rib.

Veterans Prove They're "Sound"

Corp. A. H. Witte, 806 N. East av., Oak Park, who has a Purple Heart and bronze star after Tulagi, Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan, and Tinian with the 2d division; Pvt. Raymond L. Pradzinski, 1537 W. Chestnut st., wounded with the 5th division on Iwo Jima, and Corp. Francis Fagan, 7853 Bennett av., with Witte in the 2d division activities, proved they were sound men. They agreed that after the occupation some one should tear down Honolulu, paying particular attention with artillery to the places where they brew the local drinks.

Fagan had a few kind words for his duck, Siwash, which he got at New Zealand and which, he agreed, must have traveled at least 63,000 miles. He also said Siwash drinks beer and went ashore with the assault troops on Tarawa.

No Part in Ward Election

It was agreed that unless the attack is staged a little earlier Friday night than the scheduled hour of 7:20 it is likely to be a secret assault as far as the spectators are concerned. In order to get three legs on the trophy and make the thing permanent the marines also will take Foster avenue beach at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Lt. [j. g.] Stirling Silliphant, public relations officer, who can be reached at Andover 5130 if anything bothers you, said the marines would take no part in the 50th ward aldermanic election today. They just take the beach, he said, and let the 50th ward take care of itself.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

Sept. 3, 1945.

DESPITE the rapid advance of the corn and soybean crops last week because of the hot weather, farmers still face the frost bugaboo. The corn is about two weeks behind time in development and the farmer can count on only about 48 days more before the first killing frost.

The average date for the first killing frost in the Chicago area is Oct. 21. Last year the first hard frost came Oct. 16, and in 1943 frost struck Oct. 17.

Fear Much Soft Corn

It is debatable how much of a soft corn crop we will get if frost comes at the normal time. No one denies, however, that there will be considerable grain which will contain too much moisture to crib.

Farmers like to find refuge in the old belief that if you plant late in the spring there will be a late fall. Early spring planting means an early fall, they claim.

Average Frost Dates

The date of the first killing frost in other years in the Chicago area has been:

1942	Sept. 25	1937	Oct. 14
1941	Oct. 28	1936	Nov. 4
1940	Nov. 11	1935	Nov. 5
1939	Nov. 10	1934	Oct. 28
1938	Nov. 8	1933	Oct. 25

The average date for the first killing frost in other spots in Illinois and adjacent areas is:

Freeport	Oct. 4	Aurora	Oct. 8
Dixon	Oct. 11	Joliet	Oct. 9
Rockford	Oct. 7	Morrison	Oct. 16
Waukegan	Oct. 16	Sycamore	Oct. 9
Bloomingdale	Oct. 16	Kankakee	Oct. 11
Carlinville	Oct. 16	Monmouth	Oct. 11
Danville	Oct. 15	Ottowa	Oct. 12
Marengo	Oct. 10	Springfield	Oct. 19
Mt. Carroll	Oct. 2	Decatur	Oct. 16
Pontiac	Oct. 14	Dubuque, Ia.	Oct. 16
Effingham	Oct. 16	Davenport, Ia.	Oct. 15
Havanna	Oct. 18	Keokuk, Ia.	Oct. 17
Peoria	Oct. 19	Hannibal, Mo.	Oct. 19

Nature Protects Itself

One manner in which nature protects itself is by forcing plants to a rapid growth if they have been late in getting started and frost threatens. This phenomenon has been noted many times. In years when the corn has been seeded late and frost came early the mature stalks were shorter than normal and the ears were smaller.

Each day of hot weather from now on will cut down sharply on the amount of soft corn. Few farmers will forget the year of 1942 when frost came Sept. 25. Many fields of soybeans and thousands of acres of corn were damaged that year. The damage was not as extensive as might be imagined because farmers had been favored with an early spring that year. Corn usually takes from 100 to 120 days to mature. Thus the farmer who gets his corn seeded before June generally can rely on a mature crop if frost comes at the normal time.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

MANY of the staked tomato plants in the Wheaton farm gardens soon will go into a second phase of production. All of the sucker growths [those emerging from the axils of the main stem and the main leaf stems] have been pruned out. However, on many of the plants a heavy sucker growth has developed from the base of the main stem, an inch or two above ground level.

When the main staked stem nears the end of its productive season, and there are only a few small green fruits left, the gardener cuts and discards this entire main stem. Then the secondary stem which has grown just above ground level can be lifted off the ground and tied to the stake.

These secondary stems are heavily laden with green fruits, and by tying them to the stake many of the fruits will ripen before frost time.

Three of Doolittle Raid Flyers Reach Capital

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 [Tuesday] (AP)—Three of the four rescued flyers who participated in the Doolittle raid on Japan arrived here by plane early today. The trio—1st Lt. The three were taken immediately to Walter Reed hospital.

FIND A 'TAME' TWIN TO WILD-WAR-TYPE ATOM

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—An official British report on the atomic bomb received today reveals there are two kinds of atomic explosions, one the city destroying type, and the other only about as powerful as ordinary explosives.

The low power explosion has important implications. It indicates that in producing atomic power for peace, engineers will deal with a force not much greater in destructive capacity than accidents in steam and gasoline power plants.

The two kinds of atomic explosions depend, respectively, on fast neutrons for an atomic bomb and slow neutrons for atomic power.

Fast neutrons are uncharged particles that travel at thousands of miles a second and with energies of millions of volts each. Slow neutrons drop to energies of only a few volts or even fractions of volts, and also to a few miles per second in speed. Their very slowness prevents their use in an atomic bomb.

WHO STRIPPED AMERICA'S PACIFIC DEFENSES?

One of the most remarkable admissions of the army and navy reports on Pearl Harbor is that if we had not taken the terrific punishment dealt out by the Japs on Dec. 7, 1941, we would have taken an almost equally fearful beating from them that same day somewhere else. This conclusion is supported by Mr. John T. Flynn's analysis of the disaster at Oahu, published Sunday by THE TRIBUNE.

The reports of both army and navy boards of inquiry are remarkably defeatist in tone—not because of the specific circumstances of the calamity which was suffered, but because a calamity would have occurred in any event, no matter where or how the Jap fleet was encountered. The reports are replete with references to the fact that the attack was "inevitable" and "unpreventable," that a higher state of readiness "would have added little, if anything," to our defense, that our fleet was "numerically inferior," and that the number of planes at our disposal was pitifully inadequate.

Capt. Edwin T. Layton, intelligence officer of the Pacific fleet, asserted that if the fleet had been able to spot the approaching Jap force and gone out to meet it, we would have been beaten. Our battleships, he said, were too slow to have brought the Jap vessels under gunfire, and the remainder of our fleet would have "suffered severe damage if not defeat by reason of the great [enemy] superiority in the air."

The navy report, section VI., speaks of difficulties presented by attempting to distribute to best advantage "the limited supply of ships, planes, guns, and men" available in 1941, meanwhile attempting to train levies of unseasoned recruits to use the weapons. As early as Dec. 30, 1940, Rear Adm. Bloch, Pearl Harbor base defense officer, "set forth the inability of the 14th naval district to meet a hostile attack with the equipment and forces at hand."

Bloch stated he had no planes available for distant reconnaissance and that neither in numbers nor type were the army bombers at Oahu satisfactory for this purpose. He called attention to the serious deficiency of the army in both fighting planes and anti-aircraft guns, and noted that the anti-aircraft warning system planned by the army would not be completed until an indefinite time in the future. In fact, it was not completed until seven months after Pearl Harbor.

In his reply, Secretary of War Stimson promised to rectify the deficiencies in the army's defenses by June, 1941, but four months after the secretary's deadline had been passed, Adm. Bloch again reported to the chief of naval operations that "the only increment that had been made to the local defense forces during the last year, exclusive of [harbor] net vessels, was the U. S. S. Sacramento, an old gunboat of negligible gun power and low speed."

Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific fleet, forwarded Adm. Bloch's letter on Oct. 17, 1941, with a complaint of his own concerning the "reluctance or inability" of the navy department to provide him the vessels he asked. "A fleet, tied to its base by diversions to other purposes of light forces necessary to its security at sea is, in a real sense, no fleet at all," said Adm. Kimmel.

On Dec. 7 the Pacific fleet was divided into three task forces. Task force 1 and part of task force 2 were in harbor at Oahu. The first included the preponderance of the battleship strength of the fleet. The three battleships of the second task force had been left in harbor because they were too slow to accompany the other part of task force 2 in escorting the aircraft carrier Lexington, which was ferrying planes to Midway. Task force 3 was also at sea. "It was purely a coincidence," the navy report says, "that all battleships of the Pacific fleet, except one undergoing overhaul at the Puget Sound navy yard, were in Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7."

If so, it was the very coincidence against which Adm. Kimmel had warned on Oct. 17, when he said he would have "no fleet at all" if it were unbalanced by lack of the necessary light vessels to enable it to take to sea with security in event of emergency.

"Where had the vessels necessary for a balanced fleet gone? On March 11, 1941, President Roosevelt had inaugurated lend-lease. He began convoying shipments to Britain soon afterward. Ships were diverted from the Pacific to the Atlantic for this duty. By June there were 114 American combat vessels in the Atlantic, and 102 in the Pacific, altho always before the Pacific had been the home of the greater portion of our fleet. In May the President had taken from Adm. Kimmel three battleships, six cruisers, 18 destroyers, six transports, and all the trained marines on the west coast. In June the President ordered the transfer of three more battleships, four more cruisers, and two squadrons of destroyers to the Atlantic.

"The commanders in the Pacific," Mr. Flynn states, "protested without avail. . . . The naval defenses of the Pacific were being stripped." Japan, against our 102 fleet vessels, had 180 major combat vessels. We and all our prospective allies together had only 152 warships in the Pacific. Our fleet, because of the President's diversions, was badly unbalanced. It was, as Adm. Kimmel said, "no fleet at all," because, for lack of light supporting units, which the President had summoned into the Atlantic to convoy supplies to Britain and to engage in the "shooting war" he proclaimed Sept. 11 against Germany and Italy, its battleships were condemned to be tied up like sitting ducks in Pearl Harbor. That is the principal reason why we were doomed to take a beating on Dec. 7, no matter what the circumstances.

The diversion of the planes necessary to reconnaissance and defense in the Pacific began as soon as lend-lease was enacted. Kimmel needed at least 180 and possibly 270 long distance patrol planes to conduct a proper reconnaissance. He had only 69. The army needed 180 B-17s for long distance patrol. It had six. The army needed at least 200 fighter planes. It had a limited number of P-36 fighters and B-18 bombers, obsolete and invitations to suicide in combat, and 10 attack bombers, with a range of 300 miles. What new planes there were were going elsewhere than to the Pacific, under lend-lease.

Who stripped our Pacific defenses? Why was Pearl Harbor attack "unpreventable"? Why would the fleet have been defeated on Dec. 7, wherever the enemy was encountered in the Pacific? History will provide the answer. Indeed, it can be provided now. The culpability lay in Washington. It lay with the man who was so fond of calling himself "the commander in chief," and it still lies with those who assisted him in executing his policies. While he was inviting a war in the Pacific, he had his back turned to it.

STALIN'S DEPUTY IN BRITAIN

Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the British Labor party, in a speech in Paris recently, declared that "we need a great Socialist victory in France." He called upon the French to socialize their country and thus "to form a community with Great Britain in common aims and in common spirit."

Laski is not content with taking over the industries of his country in accordance with a plan he already has announced, but is seeking to spread his own brand of totalitarianism to other countries. This is not a Socialist as we have known the term in this country. He would find little in common with Norman Thomas, nor with the trade union members of his own government, on the basis of their past views, at least. Laski is a Communist and a Stalinite rather than a Trotskyite.

No one is more enthusiastic about communist Russia than Laski. He eulogizes Stalinist totalitarianism without restraint, even likening its supersession of capitalism to the victory of early Christianity over paganism. In his most recent book, "Faith, Reason, and Civilization," he wrote: "The Russian revolution, like the early Christian church, impresses both the imagination and the conscience of its times in a way that gives a new and hopeful perspective to the history whose prospects it foreshadows." At another point he made the following statement: "No one is entitled to doubt that there is developing in the soviet union those qualities of mind and heart which gave the Greek city-state at its best its capacity to raise the moral stature of its citizens."

Right after the announcement of the election returns there were reports from London that Laski was to be made the head of the legation at Washington. If that was the plan, expediency has led it to be changed or at least deferred. The Laborites, like Democrats or Republicans, want as many jobs as possible for their fellows, but they are going to keep Lord Halifax and the other Conservatives who have demonstrated their ability to get whatever was wanted at Washington. It is noteworthy that John Maynard Keynes, who has been referred to in the past as "the Englishman who rules America," has been reappointed to a post in the exchequer, and dispatched in all haste to Washington with the announcement of the cancellation of lend-lease.

What Laski's position is to be in the government, which his electioneering brought into power in Britain, has not been definitely disclosed. It is not probable, however, that he will spend much time in furthering the international revolution in Europe. We can be sure that he will eventually concentrate his attentions upon the United States.

Here Laski has long been proselyting. He often has lectured at American universities and one of his admirers reports that he wound up his addresses with an appeal to the students "to join the 'emancipation struggle of humanity.'" In 1940, when the third term issue was before the American people, he wrote a book on "The American Presidency," which eloquently justified the breaking of the two term tradition. In this book, prepared for the 1940 campaign, Laski also justified Mr. Roosevelt's practice of extending the powers of the executive at the expense of congress and the states.

Earlier the British radical seems to have counseled with President Roosevelt on the Supreme court. The Associated Press reported on Jan. 5, 1939, that Laski "let out a shout of joy when he learned Felix Frankfurter had been named to the Supreme court." Laski added that he had previously discussed the appointment with the President. Before going on the bench Frankfurter was in some respects the American counterpart of the British intellectual radical. Even now Laski writes a column published here, in which he does not hesitate to criticize leading Americans.

Shortly after the election results were announced last month it was reported that Laski is to be made ambassador to the United States. If this fanatic of Russian totalitarianism is acceptable to Washington it ought to be made clear to him that he is not free to propagandize for a change in our social-economic policies or in our form of government. The Russians were put on similar notice by Secretary Hull when the soviets were recognized by the Roosevelt administration. If Laski comes to Washington it might also be well to remind him of the experience of Sackville-West, an earlier British diplomat, whose recall was forced by an American President for interfering in our domestic affairs.

WRITTEN ON V-J DAY

The surrendering ceremonies at Tokyo added another "first time," we think, to momentous events of world history. This seems to have been the first great war-ending party that was held on a warship in a completely naval environment.

Such an observation may cause various sharpshooters with corrective temperaments to tell us: "You're wrong again. Don't you remember the treaty of Tilsit?" . . . Yes, indeed, but we find no similarity between Tokyo bay and a small river in East Prussia, or between the battleship Missouri and a pavilion on a raft. The signatories of Tilsit [Napoleon, the czar of Russia, the king of Prussia] met at a houseboat party. The event was unique for its time, and has been the subject of large historical paintings, but when compared with the American management of Japan's capitulation, it seems like one of the minor adventures of Huckleberry Finn.

World War I. ended in a railway car, which Hitler wheeled out 22 years later for the French surrender of 1940. Germany succumbed for the second time in a French high school building, romanticized by American reporters into "a little red school house." [It is neither small nor red.] These backgrounds seem commonplace, even grubby, when one contemplates the stage setting of the grand finale, with Fujiyama on the backdrop.

The monthly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, September issue, contains an article which may cause some soul-searching among the atom-crackers. Its author, Gene Weltfish, an anthropologist, proposes an oath to be taken by scientists, along the lines of the medical profession's oath of Hippocrates. It reads:

"I pledge that I will use my knowledge for the good of humanity and against the destructive forces of the world and the ruthless intent of men; and that I will work together with my fellow scientists of whatever nation, creed, or color for these, our common ends."

CROSSROADS

Down from the angry hills of midnight came
This woman; from the mountains cold and dark
With yesterdays she bore a feeble flame
Of faith and sheltered that small, dying spark.
Then, at the crossroads where she paused to rest
She found the signposts and she read these words:
A valley lush and green lies to the west—
A peaceful valley glad with sun and birds;
But to the east from whence you came there lies
The treacherous range of sorrow and of doubt.
She turned to seek new roads with grateful eyes—
A wind arose and blew her taper out.
Should she pursue strange avenues alone,
Or climb the hills her feet have always known?

Beauty and the Box Social

The box social was generally held in Grange hall, and its climax was the auctioning of the lunch boxes which had been packed by the young ladies of the church. The young man who bought the box had the honor of eating its contents with its donor.

Of course the box belonging to the most beautiful young lady always brought the highest price. We were not supposed to know, but things get around, and every one knew that a certain box with a blue ribbon belonged to Miss Glamorpuss, and once it brought the princely sum of $4.95.

But the lunch box belonging to the unglamorous one was hardly ever sold at all. She was a well padded husky young lassie, and her lunch box was full of potato salad, summer sausage, roast pork, wiener schnitzel, and other goodies. She never brought a small lunch box.

She had a skin as clear and lovely as the petals of a rose, and tho heavy, she danced with the speed and grace of wind over the grass. When the time came to "swing your partner," if he could not swing her, she swung him.

Sometimes she ate with little me. "Gee, you sure are a swell cook. Aren't we having a grand time?" "Yes, aren't we?" she replied. But was that a tear in her eye?

O, fudge, why worry about it now? She made the best marriage in the county. A fine young fellow decided that he had always been too darn thin, and he hoped her cooking would bring him up to her size.

I AM BROWN

I am brown—as brown as autumn leaves,
Shimmering gently thru the breeze.
I am brown, because God made me so.
He must have loved me tho,
For it took time to make the dye,
Then wait for me to dry . . .
I am not one who idly grieves,
Thanks, God, for me and autumn leaves.

T. S. writes: "The GI bill says any person who served is entitled to a course of education or training, but does not define either. What is meant?"

It simply means that any person eligible to "education or training" may take a course in education or pursue any training he elects in any educational or training institution approved by the department of education in the state where located, provided the educational or training institution is willing to accept him as a student or trainee in any field or branch of knowledge which he is qualified to pursue. It is possible under the GI bill for a veteran entitled to two years of education or training to take one year of training in a trade school and one year of college work.

M. L. B. writes: "My husband was enlisted in the navy in 1940 for six years. He now has 53 points under the navy's point discharge plan and also the silver star. In addition, he has been wounded. Will he be able to get a discharge now, or will he have to stay in service until 1946?"

His enlistment was for six years, and he therefore is obligated to remain in service until the expiration of his enlistment, unless discharged sooner for medical reasons. Regular navy men whose period of enlistment expires prior to six months after congress declares the war at end may be retained in service under an extension of their enlistment for such time as their services are required.

WHY WE SHOULD COOK PORK WELL

ONE of our major public health problems of today concerns trichinosis, a disease contracted thru the eating of raw or improperly cooked pork. In spite of attempts to control the menace, far too many cases are still being observed. It has been estimated that approximately 18 per cent of our population show evidence of this infection.

The Trichinella spiralis is the parasite responsible for the difficulty. It is found within muscle fibers and is protected from the ordinary elements by a transparent capsule. The only means of destroying them is sufficient cooking.

After the infected morsel is swallowed, the acid in the stomach is capable of dissolving the coating, thus liberating the tiny larvae which ultimately mature and become the adult worms. These minute organisms burrow into the intestinal wall and lay their eggs. As many as 10,000 have been deposited at one time. Finding their way into the blood stream, they migrate to the muscles where they settle permanently. If we were cannibalistic we, too, would be capable of transmitting the disorder.

The condition manifests itself one or two days after consuming the contaminated edible. If only a few parasites enter, the chances are that no symptoms will result. On the other hand, after ingesting large numbers, the signs may be as severe as typhoid fever. Loss of appetite, abdominal pain, vomiting, and sometimes diarrhea are noted. Oftimes the attack may be difficult to distinguish from ordinary food poisoning. This stage of the disorder coincides with the period when the worm begins to burrow into the bowel wall.

By the end of the second week, the organisms reach the muscles, whereupon chills and fever ensue. In addition, the fibers become extremely painful and are tender on pressure and movement. Swelling of the tissues, particularly around the eyes, is a characteristic feature. In time, the severe manifestations subside but distress in the muscles may persist indefinitely.

Certain tests can be performed to aid in establishing the diagnosis. A study of the blood will reveal an increased number of a certain blood cell—the eosinophil. A skin test may be taken and, as a rule, is positive within seven to 14 days after the onset of the disease. As a last resort, microscopic examination of an excised piece of muscle will disclose the presence of tiny larvae.

There are no specific means of killing the invaders once they gain access into the circulation. If, by chance, it has been discovered that spoiled meat was ingested, cathartics will help to remove the material. This should be done within 24 hours after eating because it is following this period that the worms become firmly attached to the walls.

The task of prevention is placed upon the consumer. All pork and pork products, including that found in sausage, must be cooked thoroly at 137 degrees F. If each of us would make this a rule, the incidence of the disease could be reduced.

STOMACH DISCOMFORT

R. K. writes: I am suffering from a sour stomach. How can I overcome it?

REPLY

The stomach contains several acids and cannot be considered sweet at any time. The term usually refers to several conditions, and a thoro examination, including X-rays, may be necessary to ascertain the true cause. I would suggest, therefore, a visit to a competent physician.

ARTERIAL BEAT

W. L. writes: Are the pulse and the heart beat one and the same?

REPLY

Not necessarily, for the former is an arterial pulsation resulting from blood being forced out of the heart. In some cardiac disorders, the pulse fails to register all of the heart beats.

The Intellectuals Were Stunned

Back in 1928 the Theater Guild produced a play called "Wings Over Europe," by Robert Nichols and Maurice Browne. The public received it with mixed mystification, jeers, and salaams. That is, half of the public did, the half that understood it. The other half thought it lunacy.

It all took place at 10 Downing st. The hero is a young scientist named Lightfoot whose trust in humanity had been shaken [by World War I.] when he was 16. He had been living in a remote corner of North Wales working with his assistants in his laboratories. He had taken no one into his confidence. He was a nice young man, altho considered a touch cracked, but this usually was overlooked because he was a nephew of the prime minister. He wanted to tell the cabinet of a discovery he had made.

The cabinet is very busy. The hero, Lightfoot, has trouble getting a word in. He tells the cabinet he has been working five years to solve the old riddle, "What is energy?" He uses the language of physicists.

"Cut the cackle and come to the hosses," interrupts one old fogy. The rest of the committee ignores him and buzzes conversationally about more important trivia.

Suddenly he jumps to his feet. "Gentlemen," he cries, "I can control . . . the energy . . . in the atom!"

One old boy drops his monocle. Another again tries to change the subject.

"Yesterday," Lightfoot goes on, "man was a slave; today he is free. Matter obeys him!"

Another cabinet member says witheringly: "I've risen to my present position by my obstinate preference for facts as opposed to verbiage. Rhapsodies, however eloquent, are not evidence. Stick to facts, please."

Lightfoot is calm, but weary. He tells them what this means. "Look here, young man," one peer cries, "I like you, but this joke has gone far enough. A farce is—"

The hero is infuriated. He says he will give them a week to measure up to their responsibility.

In that week he takes two scientists on a walking tour. By detonating what one describes as a lump of sugar he blows a crater in the earth as large as St. Paul's. He also transforms one peer's latchkey into gold and then into India rubber. The prime minister apologizes, saying his nephew may seem a queer fish, but he is a nice boy "and a gentleman!" The cabinet decides to persuade Lightfoot to reveal his discovery to no one and to destroy the secret. He refuses. Either by noon the next day the cabinet must formulate a constructive program using his discovery, or England becomes a whirlpool of disintegrating atoms. "What do you mean?" one asks. "A bomb?" "Nature is not as simple as you, first lord," Lightfoot replies, "nor am I."

Well, the next day eventually comes. The cabinet is adamant. So is Lightfoot. He gives them a final 15 minutes and goes out to feed the swans. On the 14th minute the cabinet has him shot. Every one is hysterical that they are safe. Just then a messenger comes in, bearing a letter from a world league of scientists. The world league has discovered that an outside scientist has proved he can control the atom—but so can they. A postscript says that six airplanes will be above the cabinets' heads as they read the letter. They will contain atomic bombs. [The cabinet hears the planes.] Similar planes and bombs are to be over the capital of every civilized country. Any one wishing to play must race to Geneva.

The prime minister races for a plane to Geneva. Somebody says he loves that man. Another says Hooray! A third says: "Idiot! Geneva! Between them, the end!" The prime minister says, "No, if man can find faith, the beginning!"

Burns Mantle, the critic, from whose book the above excerpts are taken, said of the play: "The Guild produced and stunned even its intellectuals with 'Wings Over Europe'."

And, 17 years later, the United States produced and stunned even its intellectuals with wings over Japan.

IS SLAVERY EXTINCT?

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 29—Many of us "work or fight" men at Camp Grant are confronted by conditions similar to those at Camp Ellis, as seen by Sen. Johnson on his visit there and reported in a Tribune story. Here we are treated like animals, both in medical attention and in duties.

We are not complaining because we are in the army. We are willing to be here if the government of the people feels that we belong here. But we want medical attention and the officers [doctors] seem to stall or even disregard our illness because we are in this "work or fight" group. In our newspapers we have been reading and criticizing the German and Japanese methods of treating their people, when we have the same conditions right here in the United States.

There are 52,000 in our group who have been rejected as physically unfit for military service. We are now here with the same ailments. Many of us have tried to visit a civilian doctor, but we are refused medical attention because we are in the army and therefore the army doctors are supposed to treat us. Can anything be done in our behalf? Are we human beings, do we have the rights of Americans, are we slaves of a few politicians, and do the German prisoners of war in this country have more rights than we? They start work at 8 a. m. We start at 7:30. They get medical attention. We are overlooked. They work six days a week. We work seven days. They pick up butts, papers, and do other light work. We are put on baggage details and other heavy work.

I am 26 years old, married six and one half years and have two children, one 4 and the other 3. I was instructed by my doctor to do only light work, therefore I had to leave my defense job; 15 days after I quit I was put in the army, with a profile rather than a physical examination. In the army I have been doing strenuous work, so three weeks ago I went to our hospital for medical attention. The hospital refused to admit me because I am a "work or fight man." PRIVATE

OPA RULES ON LUMBER

Chicago, Aug. 28—The Tribune editorial discussing the detrimental effect of OPA, hits the nail on the head. I would like to elaborate a bit. Take the lumber business, relatively short in stocks which are badly needed. No wholesaler or agent who for decades handled the output may add one dime to ceiling prices, but shippers must pay them from allowed ceilings at point of production. The result is that big buyers and heavy users go direct to the mills and pay net ceilings. This has the effect of throwing most buying opportunities to those with outlets and bank rolls large enough to handle huge quantity. They also use their very favorable rating to induce mills to trade.

Tens of thousands of small yards and small industries which have depended on the orthodox distribution channels are unable to secure a thing. They cannot afford buyers and extended trips for the purpose. So the effect of OPA ceilings here is to create a sort of monopoly for those with the most capacity and money to swing it. This the public pays for in taxes, since they pay for the OPA machinery and its flood of literature, investigators, etc.

THEY LIVE IN MUDHOLES

HAMMELBURG, Germany, Aug. 18—We members of the 90th field artillery ask your help in trying to get a little justice. We have seen one year of combat service in Germany and we were all set to board the ship to come home again when the news of the Jap surrender came and the homecoming trip was canceled. Altho it hurt us very much, we didn't mind, because we knew the 85 pointers were going first in our place, as they deserved to because they have been here longer. But here is what hurts:

We are living in large tents out in a large cow pasture. The mud is terrific and every time it rains we have about a foot of water in each tent. In other words, we are living where even a pig would not want to live. Now that we are not going home, why can't we live like other soldiers in warm, dry houses?

GREEN FORESEES RECORD PERIOD OF EXPANSION

Industrial Revolution Is Expected from Atom

Camden, N. J., Sept. 3 [Special]—A peaceful period of industrial expansion and social betterment greater than any in American history was foreseen today by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Speaking at a program at the grave of Peter J. McGuire, a founder of the AFL and father of Labor day, Green predicted that "we stand at the threshold of a new industrial revolution, perhaps more sweeping in its effects than the advent of the machine age and electric power." He urged government and industry to join with labor in efforts to bring about a new era of prosperity.

"Even in our own day and with existing facilities we can and must raise American standards of living by at least 50 per cent," Green said. "Let us proclaim our determination on this Labor day to achieve that immediate goal."

Urges Reconversion Speed

Green urged private industry to speed its reconversion program and the government to help by giving reconversion the highest priority.

"If that is done, transitional unemployment will be held to a minimum, and will be of brief duration," he said. "The tremendous backlog of unfilled orders for the things the American people need and were unable to obtain during war time should bring about wide expansion of peace time production and provide a plentiful supply of jobs."

Green offered a "greater prosperity" program calling for immediate wage increases, a shorter work week, and enactment of pending bills dealing with unemployment benefits, employment, housing, and social security.

The AFL will resume its drive for a shorter work week, he said, as soon as "conditions settle down and we are able to take stock of the nation's long range needs."

Swellenbach Warns Labor

In Washington Labor Secretary Schwellenbach warned American labor that it now faces stern responsibilities. In a Labor day radio talk, Schwellenbach said labor has duties to society that must be shouldered or government will be forced to act.

"Labor now has the opportunity to solve its problems, and to make certain that the common good is not transgressed," Schwellenbach said.

"We cannot have full employment, full production, or full consumption if our productive machine is stalled and our power to consume diminished as a result of chaotic industrial relations."

WARD LAWYERS SLATE APPEAL FOR THIS WEEK

Attorneys for Montgomery Ward & Co. said yesterday that they expect to file later this week in the United States Supreme court a petition for review of the decision of the United States Court of Appeals holding the seizure of their mail order plants legal.

The attorneys added that, regardless of President Truman's recent order directing the return of plants seized by the government during the war, outcome of their appeal to the higher court will be a great help in determining damages. The Ward plants have not yet been turned back.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal District court last Jan. 27 ruled that the seizure order of President Roosevelt was illegal. The Appeals court, in a 2 to 1 decision, reversed Judge Sullivan.

HALF MILLION TO GO BACK TO SCHOOLS TODAY

More than half a million Chicago and Cook county children will resume their studies this week in public and parochial schools.

Chicago public schools begin the fall term today. Supt. William H. Johnson has estimated an enrolment of approximately 370,000. Cook county schools, most of which also open today, will have an enrolment of approximately 100,000.

More than 150,000 pupils will return to Catholic schools tomorrow. Msgr. Daniel Cunningham, Catholic school superintendent, predicted an increase of more than 2,000 pupils in high schools of the Chicago archdiocese.

BATAAN PARENTS JOIN CRY: PROBE PEARL HARBOR

Gen. J. V. Clinnin Also Urges Full Truth

Parents of soldiers captured on Bataan and Corregidor added their voices yesterday to the demands for a complete investigation of the responsibility for Pearl Harbor. The naval disaster there made it impossible to reenforce the army defending the Philippines.

A. C. McArthur

"I am very much in favor of a Pearl Harbor investigation by congress," said A. C. McArthur of Villa Park, president of the American Bataan Clan of Maywood.

McArthur, who has been board chairman or president of the Maywood organization since the national guard tank company from that suburb was taken prisoner on Bataan, commended the work done by John T. Flynn, investigator and publicist.

Wants Truth About Peace Offer

"When the investigation is made I want it also to give us the truth about the allegation that the Japanese offered to surrender seven months earlier, but were ignored by President Roosevelt," McArthur continued. "An earlier peace would have prevented thousands of casualties on Iwo and Okinawa. It would have saved the lives of Bataan men who starved in prison camps or were torpedoed in transports during recent months."

Parents of other prisoners agree with McArthur, said Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 Leavitt st., president of the Bataan War Prisoners' Relief association of Illinois. "Nothing should be allowed to prevent the full investigation of Pearl Harbor," she said.

Roosevelt "Too Cocksure"

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, attorney and civic leader, said Flynn's articles "reflect the true situation as it existed at Pearl Harbor and reach the right conclusions," and added that President Roosevelt was "too cocksure" the Japs would attack in or near the Philippines and hence didn't fully alert the Pearl Harbor commanders.

"The evidence presented by Flynn should be completely investigated," he said.

"He ran into an apple tree."

LEAHY REPORTS U. S. STILL PUTS AMERICA FIRST

Can't Ignore the Wars Abroad, He Says

Yankton, S. D., Sept. 3 [Special]—Fleet Adm. Leahy paid high tribute to the middle west in a talk before a farm audience here today, and asserted that despite the successful completion of a global war, "in one particular we remain isolationists—in our primary devotion to the interests and welfare of America."

Adm. Leahy

The Presidential chief of staff spoke at the annual midwest farmer day program sponsored by radio station WNAX and Yankton civic and business organizations.

Bad for Alien Isms

"Here where you live is the bedrock of America," the fleet admiral said. "Here lie the stable elements, the land and its people, which have kept and will keep our country strong and free.

"This is bad planting ground for alien philosophies, but the institutions and traditions of democracy are firmly rooted," he asserted. "It is a forward looking land eager for new horizons, progressive in its dedication to the public good but conservative in its defense of the American way of life.

He noted that "this middle west has always been a prime recruiting ground" for the military services.

Calls for Vigilance

"Here was the world's breadbasket, its dairy, and in considerable part, its arsenal," he said. "On your near-by Great Lakes were built more than 200 naval vessels to be transported by ingenious means thru inland waterways to the fighting fronts."

Leahy warned his hearers that the devastation visited upon the cities and people of Europe could be repeated here.

"In our democracy it is the people who must be vigilant, eager, and insistent on the holy purposes for which we fought this war."

TWO ROBBERS GET $50

James Campbell, who operates a currency exchange at 11109 Longwood dr., told police yesterday that two Negroes robbed him of $50.

MAYWOOD PLANS BATAAN VICTORY PARADE SUNDAY

Memorial services in the churches, a parade, and a program will be held Sunday in Maywood, many of whose sons were killed or taken prisoner on Bataan in the defense of the Philippine Islands, as the village celebrates Bataan victory day.

Louis E. Nelson, general chairman, said that hopes are high in the village that some of the Maywood men released from Japanese prisoner of war camps will be able to return in time for the celebration.

Th parade will begin at 2 p. m. Sunday.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PRICE AND WAR FRAUDS SWAMP FEDERAL COURT

Federal judges who return to their courtrooms next Monday after a 10 week summer vacation will be confronted with the most crowded docket of civil cases in the court's history. Several important criminal cases, arising out of war time frauds, also will be brought to trial during the first few months of the new term.

The large number of civil cases—more than 5,000—is due to the filing of injunction and treble damage suits by the office of price administration for price violations. OPA attorneys recently estimated their damage suits filed here would approximate 10 million dollars.

United States Atty. Woll said yesterday that he will urge the judges to set early trial dates for criminal cases alleging war time cheating. One, an indictment charging Bert K. Naster, owner of the Superior Electrical Industries, Inc., 1255 S. Campbell av., with evasion of $221,575 income taxes, already has been set for trial Sept. 24. Another is that of Harry E. Jacoby, president of the Amazon Hose and Rubber company, 130 N. Jefferson st., charged with evasion of $192,313.

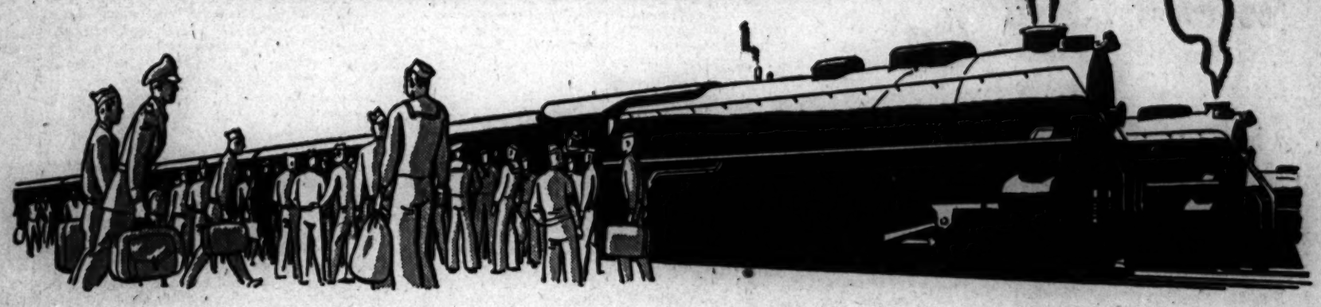
It isn't all over—
Over Here



At a time when all America is rejoicing over final Victory, it isn't easy to sound a somber note. But the effects of years of war cannot be erased overnight. The return to normal conditions will take place gradually—step by step.

So it is with the railroads . . . with Union Pacific. Millions of men and women in service have yet to be returned to their homes. And, unfortunately, there will be others whose destination will be a hospital or rehabilitation center. Because Union Pacific is a transcontinental railroad, uniting the East with the West Coast, a large share of this job will fall on our shoulders.

You want these men and women to be returned home with utmost speed—and so do we—but at best it will take months and the use of a large part of our passenger equipment.

For this reason we ask the civilian public not to expect an immediate betterment in the transportation situation. For the railroads, as for industry generally, there must be a period of reconversion.

So we say—please be patient. Normal peacetime operation will be resumed as quickly as possible and, as in the past, the progressive Union Pacific will provide unexcelled facilities and service.

Take it Easy!

By MARK MERIT

We were out on the highways on that memorable Sunday . . . the first one when gas could be bought without gas coupons. The few still unused "A-Card" stamps had been carefully laid away, to be brought out some day for grandchildren to gaze upon and talk about with curiosity, when they grow up in a world of peace. And thousands of other car owners had the same idea; the nation seemed to be on the road and a people "on wheels" once more.

We found—and had several narrow escapes from accidents in doing it—that there are a lot of faulty brakes on the road. There was poor timing on the part of drivers who had lost some of their technique of driving in traffic. Some of the ancient cars weren't able to respond to the throttle as they once did.

So we kept thinking: "Take it easy; take it easy." Now, that isn't a bad slogan to adopt. This Company has been saying, "Take it easy; take it easy" for a number of years. Not in those precise words, perhaps. Our word for it is "Moderation." The whole industry has urged moderation in the consumption of its products.

But that word "moderation" shouldn't apply to our products alone, should it?

The open road is ours again. There's an old Italian saying, "Que Va Piano—Va Sano, E Va Lontano." He who goes slowly goes safely and goes far.

So—Take it easy!

Illinois Police Join in the Black Glove Hunt

and Jan Marie, 10. He was eligible to retirement last June.

In his pockets was found $3,032 in $10 and $20 bills, which his widow said he had withdrawn from a safe deposit box three weeks ago. He recently bought a $1,000 war bond, she said, and with the remainder of the money was planning another purchase, which she declined to discuss.

Police associates said Hellstern was eccentric; that he distrusted banks; that he refused to wear an overcoat, even in bitter weather, and that he parked his automobile at the top of an incline to save wear and tear on the starter. Mrs. Hellstern requested that she be given the suit her husband wore when he was shot, because it was the only one he had.

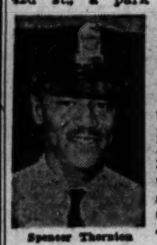
In 1930, just three blocks from the scene of Sunday night's affray, Hellstern and his partner of that time, Patrolman Arthur Burke, captured a burglar who had robbed the Cochran & McCluer real estate office at 1530 Morse av. of $3,000.

Widows to Get $10,000 Each

The widows of both slain detectives will receive $10,000 provided by the city for widows of policemen killed in line of duty. In addition, each will receive $1,800 a year until their youngest child reaches the age of 18.

Services for Brady will be held at 10 a. m. Friday in St. Ignatius church, Loyola and Glenwood avs. Services for Hellstern will be held Thursday in St. Henry's Roman Catholic church, Devon and Hoyne avs. A double inquest will be held at 11 a. m. today at 1359 Devon av.

2 KILLED AT 2D WARD PICNIC; 1 IS PARK POLICEMAN



Spencer Thornton

Spencer Thornton, 37, of 820 E. 42d st., a park policeman, was fatally shot yesterday at a 2d ward Democratic picnic at the 31st st. beach when he sought to intervene in a quarrel between Will Robinson, 45, of 3129 Indiana av., who also was slain, and James Coppage, 44, of 4757 Prairie av. All are Negroes.

Police said Coppage drew a revolver and opened fire, killing Robinson and fatally wounding Thornton. Patrolman Edward Hall of the Chicago Lawn station, who had been assigned to the picnic, and Park Policeman Joseph Ryan ran to the spot and shot Coppage in the shoulder, side, and face. Coppage was removed to Michael Reese hospital and later to the Bridewell hospital.

Thornton died shortly after arrival at Michael Reese hospital.

Pacific Marine's Trousers Reach Long Lake Shores

When Donald Grischeau, 20, of Ingleside, Lake county, now a marine, was boating on Long lake last August the boat capsized and Grischeau kicked off his trousers so he could swim more easily. The trousers sank to the bottom. Fox lake firemen who were dragging the lake yesterday recovered the trousers. In a pocket was Grischeau's wallet, containing $5 and identification cards. Grischeau, when last heard from, was on Okinawa.

WORKERS' GAINS VITAL TO NATION, GREEN ASSERTS

Cahokia, Ill., Sept. 3 (AP)—"The sound prosperity of American labor in the future must be built on the traditions of tolerance, justice, and brotherhood," Gov. Green said today in a Labor day address.

America has a vital interest in the further advancement of our workers, the governor said, adding, "for under our American system the American farmer and the city workers share prosperity or depression, and capital and industry enjoy their greatest progress when wages and employment are at high levels."

Green spoke at a dedication of the Holy Family parish school here.

POPE MAY PICK NEW CARDINALS BEFORE YULETIDE

Appointment of Stritch Expected Here

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 3 (AP)—Vatican informants said today a consistory might be called before Christmas to fill a number of the 31 vacant cardinal seats.

Holding of the consistory depends on clarification of the general world situation, but it is hoped that conditions will improve sufficiently in the next few months to enable cardinals from over the world to travel to Rome.

Chicago Appointment Expected

Precisely how many cardinals will be appointed is uncertain, but the pope is expected to name at least 10 to fill the vacant sees of New York, Chicago, Boston, Rio de Janeiro, London, Prague, Toledo [Spain], Tarragona, Estergon [Hungary], and Cologne. San Francisco also may become a cardinal see, and Pisa, Italy, and Reims, France, may receive cardinals again.

The pope also is expected to appoint from 10 to 12 cardinals in curia for service in Vatican offices and congregations.

LONG EXPECTED HERE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

The Associated Press dispatch from Vatican City saying that Pope Pius XII, probably will call a consistory soon to appoint cardinals to 10 or more sees, including Chicago, comes as no surprise to informed persons in Chicago. Archbishop Stritch had scarcely been enthroned as head of the Chicago archdiocese when it was predicted he would be elevated to succeed the late Cardinal Mundelein soon after the war.

Archbishop Stritch and Archbishop Spellman of New York already are regarded by many as "cardinals in the breast." Thus, except for the actual elevation, they are scarcely less than cardinals now.

Chicago Largest See

The Chicago archdiocese with its more than one and a half million Roman Catholics has become the largest see in this country, both in membership and in the extent of its vast institutional enterprises. Bishop John F. Noll of Fort Wayne, Ind., has announced that the proportion of Catholics to the total population in the city of Chicago has reached 40.8 per cent.

In New York the percentage is 22, and in Philadelphia, Pa., where Cardinal Dougherty remains as the sole surviving United States member of the college of cardinals, the percentage is 29. Boston, Mass., has the highest proportion of Catholics with 74.3 per cent, Bishop Noll says.

HOTEL INTRUDER SLAIN BY OWNER AFTER ATTACK

Thomas Dean, 30, of 2531 Burling st., formerly employed as a bartender in the Drake hotel and said by police to have a lengthy criminal record, was shot fatally early yesterday by Harry Rubenstein, 50, in the lobby of Rubenstein's Olympic hotel at 1015 N. Clark st.

Rubenstein told police that Dean came into the lobby and demanded to see a bartender whom he identified only as Fred. When Rubenstein's wife, Bernadine, 48, who was working at the switchboard, told Dean she didn't know such a person Dean struck her in the chest with an iron bar.

When Dean turned on him Rubenstein said he grabbed a .38 caliber revolver from beneath the desk. After Dean knocked Rubenstein to the floor with the bar, the hotel owner shot him four times, three bullets striking him in the chest. Dean died shortly after admission to Henrotin hospital.

Rubenstein, who was held for the inquest today at 716 N. State st., shot and killed Sam Criscione, 20, of 604 N. May st. in 1928 in the same hotel. He said Criscione had annoyed a young woman in her room. Last May 4 Rubenstein was found lying with his skull fractured in front of 1540 N. Wells st. He told police he hurt himself in a fall.

BODIES OF TWO VICTIMS IN LAKE TRAGEDY FOUND

The bodies of Russel Eggebrecht, 34, of 5515 Lake st., and his brother, Raymond, 42, were recovered yesterday from Long lake, Lake county, where they drowned Sunday. The bodies were brought to the surface by grappling hooks operated by the Fox Lake and Round Lake fire departments. The rowboat in which the brothers were riding was reported struck by a speedboat, but Deputy Sheriffs Robert Jenkins and Edward Dunne said that waves might have capsized it. They were unable to identify any speedboats in the vicinity of the rowboat. Coroner Garfield R. Leaf set Sept. 11 for an inquest.

CRIMINAL COURT SET FOR 2D YEAR UNDER H. G. WARD

Chief Justice Ward

The Criminal court will embark on its new court year today with Chief Justice Harold G. Ward at the helm for the second year in a row. Never before has a judge been selected to succeed himself in this honorary position. The new court term will start without any pomp or celebration; Judge Ward will simply instruct the clerk to call "the next case."

The chief justice will be assisted during the next year by Judges Julius Miner, William J. Lindsay, Leonard Reid, and Charles E. Byrne. Reid and Byrne are newcomers to the bench and will be serving their first terms in Criminal court.

The chief justice has established an unusual record. He has taken no vacations, sitting thru a six day week the entire year. He missed only one day from duty, because of illness.

Assistant State's Atty. Edward Healy, who helped the judge shatter many records last year, again will be in charge of the prosecution staff in the court.

FIREMEN SAVE BOY, 13, FOUND HANGED IN HOME

James Coleman, 13, of 5806 60th st., was found hanging from an upstairs bannister in his home, one end of a bedsheet looped about his neck yesterday, a few minutes after he had been sent to his room because he refused to go out with the family. He was taken to Evangelical hospital after he was revived by a fire department inhalator squad under Lt. Eugene Scanlon. Physicians said he was suffering from lacerations about the neck. He will recover.

End of War Gives Impetus to Debut Plans; 67 on List

BY JUDITH CASS

THE end of hostilities in the Pacific and the promise that many brothers and beaux will be at home in time to share in the Christmas festivities have given a sudden impetus to plans for the fall and winter debut season. Already the names of 67 young women—the largest total since several years before the war—have been included on the 1945 debut list. The list follows:

Mary Appel	Charlotte Hannaford	Camille McDonald
Anne Badger	Joan Harvey	Betty Lou McNabb
Mari Bahe	Winston Holliday	Janet Moore
Betty Bennett	James Claire Hoskins	Marguerite Norris
Janet Bennett	Nancy Hough	Rosalind Oates
Joan Bennett	Thallis Hoyt	Kay Reynolds
Alice Wrenn Bentley	Eloise Hughes	Joan Riley
Laura Fiske Brocksmit	Barbara Jones	Mary Louise Ruxton
Mary Birch Brocksmit	Elizabeth Ann Kerber	Ellen Ryerson
Elise Burch	Lina Kimball	Margie Salaman
Joan Burgess	Katharine Ann Kittleman	Sally Sample
Blocher Burnett	Margaret Knight	Mary Scribner
Alice Butz	Carolyn Kuehnle	Mary Clair Seaverns
Alice Byrne	Margaret Jo Laird	Betsy Shanklin
Alice Keith Carpenter	Ruth Lee	Elizabeth Sherwin
Sally Craft	Meredith Leverone	Jennifer Turner
Clair Curtis	Betty Lindop	Marcia Turner
Nancy Dick	Isobel Lindsay	Nancy Underwood
Emily Dixon	Margery Lloyd	Roxanna Welsh
Suzanne Edwards	Margaret Loomis	Grace Williams
Patricia Gerhard	Margaret Macfarland	Cynthia Wirtz
Caroline Roberts Golding	Nancy Madlener	Kay Woodruff
		Carol Yeomans

The tea-dance, which became a war time casualty because of the dearth of young men, has started to reappear on the debutante calendar. Every day during the Christmas holidays already has been booked for several parties. And altho to date there is no evidence of a return to the lavish debut balls of pre-war years, prospects of a gay winter are bright enough to gladden the hearts of the debutantes and the young men who will return from army and navy service to find a real whirl awaiting them.

Among the young women who definitely have decided against a formal debut is Miss Joan Clement, daughter of the Franklin G. Clements of Lake Forest. Miss Clement will return to her studies on Sept. 19 at Bennett Junior college. Her younger sister, Nancy, is entering Bennett this fall, along with Miss Frances Gearson, daughter of Mrs. C. M. Frank, and Miss Jill Taylor, daughter of the John L. Taylors of Glencoe. Debutantes Joan and Janet Bennett, twin daughters of James E. Bennett; Margery Lloyd, and Joan Riley also will return to the same school.

Today's debutante is Miss Elizabeth Gould Shanklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Shanklin of Syracuse, N. Y., formerly of Chicago. She will be introduced to society at a luncheon in the Indian Hill club to be given by her aunt, Mrs. Dwight P. Green.

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Robbins of Lake Forest have a war veteran in their family, their daughter, Sarah, who recently received her honorable discharge papers from the navy. Miss Robbins joined the WAVES a short time ago but never was called for recruit training because of the end of the war. Before her enlistment she was active in Red Cross work at Great Lakes.

If Maj. William J. Carney of the army arrives this month from Germany, as his parents, the William R. Carneys, hope, the Carneys will be able to have a complete family reunion. Mr. and Mrs. Carney, their daughter, Jean, and their two other sons, Lt. Otis Carney of the marines and Peter Carney, had a few days' holiday last week at Coleman Lake, Wis. Lt. Carney arrived two weeks ago from Okinawa and is spending a long leave in Lake Forest with his family.

John T. Benedict has recently received a discharge from the army air forces, and he and his wife and their baby are at home in Lake Forest with his mother, Mrs. James E. Baggot Jr., and Mr. Baggot. Mr. Benedict, who was a captain in the army air forces, was pilot of a Flying Fortress over Europe and was awarded the distinguished flying cross earlier this year.

The Ronald P. Boardmans are having a late summer holiday at their camp in the Adirondacks. Their sons, Ronald Jr. and Ted, have left Camp Wassookeag, in Dexter, Me., where they have been spending the summer, to join their parents. Ted will go directly to his classes at the Pomfret school, and Ronald will return to Lake Forest with his parents. En route home they plan to stop in Martha's Vineyard for a visit with Mr.

Betty Bennett Is Betrothed to Lt. Philip Peck

At a family dinner party las night, James Ewing Bennett of Wellington av. announced the engagement of his second daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Lt. [j.g.] Philip F. W. Peck Jr. of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peck of Lake Forest.

Mary Elizabeth Bennett

Lt. Peck arrived on Sunday from his base in Beaufort, S. C., for a 10-day leave. Last night's party also marked one of the infrequent reunions of the five Bennett sisters. Lt. and Mrs. Thomas B. Satterwhite [Barbara Bennett] are here from Washington, D. C., and also present at the dinner were Miss Ruth Ann Bennett and the twins, Janet and Joan, who will be debutantes this year. Lt. Peck's brother, Lt. Stewart T. Peck of the army, was unable to come from his post in Camp Shelby, Miss., but his wife, the former Priscilla Armstrong, is visiting here and attended the festivities.

Miss Bennett, who is called Betty, is a member of the Chicago Junior league and attended the Girls' Latin school and Miss Shipley's School for Girls in Bryn Mawr, Pa. She made her debut at a dinner-dance at the Saddle and Cycle club in 1941. Her fiancé was graduated from the Hotchkiss school and Yale university, class of 1941. Since his return in March from 16 months of duty in the South Pacific, he has been stationed at Beaufort as an air recognition officer instructor.

The announcement which Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Phelps made this weekend of the engagement and approaching marriage on Oct. 20 of their daughter, Ann, to Brinton Coxe Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morris Young of Radnor, Pa., is of interest both here and in Boston, Mass., where the Phelpses formerly lived. They moved to Lake Forest last year. Miss Phelps was graduated from the Winsor school in Boston and attended Bennington college. She was introduced to society in June, 1944, in Boston. Her fiancé, a graduate of Haverford school and Yale university, recently has returned from three years of duty in Africa, Italy, and France, where he served with the American Field service.

Mr. and Mrs. Phelps and their daughter left Sunday for a month's stay in San Francisco, Cal. They will return to make final arrangements for the wedding before going on to Boston where the ceremony will take place in the Leslie Lindsey Memorial chapel of Emmanuel church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Cornwell of Scarsdale, N. Y., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Norma, to George B. Roberts Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts of White Plains, N. Y. Miss Cornwell, granddaughter of Mrs. William D. Elmstrom of Crandon av., attended Skidmore college and the Katharine Gibbs school in New York. Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Florida.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

A change of lipstick shade can give your face a bright new look while you make the transition from summer to fall fashions. Choose one that's creamy, smooth textured, and a buoyant red.

It's perfectly natural, when summer draws to its sticky end, to want to change your familiar face a bit. We see some women changing it these days by adopting a brand new mouth line, with heavily broadened freehand outlines and the bee stung droop. It's considered in some circles to be sexy, but it seems to us just to make these women look sullen or as tho their lunch weren't sitting too well.

Our best advice to women who want to look pretty rather than discontented is to stick, in general, to the natural outlines and to choose a new vivid lip rouge color that gives the face a lift and a clear-cut look.

Some lipsticks we've found rather wonderful for wear right now—especially if the lips are a bit wind and sun seared—have a base that's 15 per cent cream. The texture is luscious. There's almost a sense of flow about the lip rouge when you wield the stick, but it doesn't smear more than it should when it's on. It clings well and the color is true.

The colors are beautiful. The melon pink shade is particularly lovely, with that quivering quality blue-pinks have. Then there is a beet shade—you can visualize that, and it's prettier than perhaps you might think. And, this summer, there is a new one, a clean, bright red cherry that's stunning with a good coat of tan.

All these are "face lifters" in one sense; they make you feel and look buoyant.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Penciled Notes

Some intriguing comments have arrived in the mail from a Chicago pencil company which has given special attention to the business girl and her needs.

"It can be expected that pencils, like everything else in the post-war world, will be streamlined," says the note. "Too little recognition has been given the fact that the white collar girls, who write a good deal, need pencils suited to individual preference.

"For one thing, some distinction will be made between pencils used by men in the office and those used by the WCGs. For example, slimmer design for feminine fingers, and pastel shades to create a pleasant memory. Frivolous? No! Just good psychology! To a WCG who is fond of light blue the idea of writing with a dainty, pearl finish light blue pencil, instead of a heavy yellow one, holds definite appeal and serves to lighten her spirits and heighten her interest in her work.

"Tests prove that such little niceties increase efficiency by making the business day easier and happier. Some firms even promise to have each WCG's name printed in gold on her personal pencils! Another innovation will be a silky smooth lead made especially for stenographers. It will glide over the paper with effortless ease, and its patented features will enable the stenographer to take as many as 25 letters without resharpening or changing pencils!"

Well, girls, you can pencil your own postscript. How about notebooks of pretty pastel hues—to put a rainbow in your business skies?

Hay? Hay!

I will pay any cost
If you'll bring on the frost!
And what is the reason?
It's my time for sneezin'!

Of Smiling Peace

"Smiling peace" is really here. The other day a loop waitress was observed to say pleasantly, "Sorry, but we are temporarily out of butter," instead of the usual meaningful shrug. BRUEN BLARNEY

Christmas Comes but Once . . .

Aside to the bosses: Now that the war is over, how about showing a little appreciation to the white collar girls who stuck with you even tho they were offered larger salaries elsewhere? There are many girls who didn't take advantage of the abnormal times and worked along with other employes who were frequently late, absent and negligent. Now is the time to reward the faithful ones and to let them know they were not overlooked. A W. C. G.

Keep Your Collars Clean

From Edwina Nolan, director of a home laundry institute, comes this "recipe" for washing those dainty lace frills and jabots:

1 quart jar with rubber and lid mild soap
½ quart soft hot water.

Shake to make good suds. Add the lace collar and shake two or three minutes. If water becomes very dirty, repeat in fresh suds. Shake out the suds in two clear rinses or a third, if rinse water is not clear. Press the water out between two layers of a bath towel. Then press with a warm iron or pull into shape with fingers.

'The Overtons' Is a Sexy Piece in a Mild Way

"THE OVERTONS"

Comedy by Vincent Lawrence, staged by Victor Sutherland in a setting by Edward Gilbert, with costumes by Hattie Carnegie. Presented by Paul Cuimber at the Great Northern Sept. 2, 1945.

THE CAST

Cora Overton	Margaret Hayes
Julia	Connie Wills
Judith Bancroft	Dorothy Mackaill
Jack Overton	Jack Whiting
Tommy	Donald Kohler
Minot	David Tyrell
James Lawson	Walter Greaza

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

After the hazards of war the perils of peace. While Vincent Lawrence's frail conversation piece on the subject of marital faithfulness which opened the Great Northern's new season last night will endanger neither life, limb, nor morals, it can scarcely be recommended as a foretaste of the brave new world of the theater. It is as old as sex and as limited.

True, the time honored stage of the Great Northern has rarely contained a talkalogue with more athletic scamperings in lieu of acting. Jack Whiting, Dorothy Mackaill, and Walter Greaza—the original Lawson of the New York cast, substituting for Victor Sutherland who is ill—leave the observer as breathless as themselves and usually to as little point. The direction, originally the work of Elisabeth Bergner, now accredited to Victor Sutherland, stresses speed at any cost, and constantly clicks with the rat-a-tat of a typewriter, and with as little nuance.

But tho it moves fast, "The Overtons" doesn't cover much ground. The conjugal combination of the title represents a couple who are, to the incredulous amazement of their circle, happily married, tho the samples displayed as examples of their marital felicity are not of the sort to convert an inveterate bachelor. They lie to each other, push one another around, slap each other on vulnerable parts of the anatomy, and raise their voices to each other on great and small provocation. But they seem to like it and thereby have built up the reputation of being united in a happy marriage.

Their supposed blissfulness does not arouse the ire of their friends so much as their boasted faithfulness, which gives you an idea of the crowd they run with. One of them, a restive actress, sets out to see if it's really true about Mr. Overton, and another of the set, the friend and adviser of a banker to whom Mr. Overton owes a hundred grand, follows a similar policy with Mrs. Overton.

Neither one gets places, tho the influential gentleman learns something of Mrs. Overton's philosophy of marriage, which is very high minded, modern, and noble until she discovers that her spouse has been observed in the actress' boudoir, at which point her behavior becomes as old as original sin. Actually the actress was only changing her clothes to go for a boat ride, but Mr. Overton doesn't like his wife's insinuations, and he lets her pack her suitcase and walk out in a very wifely huff.

Maybe you can get some idea from this why every one has to work so hard. Mr. Whiting is more rah-rah as the husband than David Tyrell as a perennial Harvard man. And without being able to suggest what other key it might have been played in, Dorothy Mackaill's bored actress had a weary and sometimes strident note of forbearance with all things male that didn't seem exactly what the author had in mind, if anything. Mr. Greaza's menace was more convincing, and Margaret Hayes made of Mrs. Overton a sweet and pretty child, who undoubtedly had often been to the theater or the movies to see Elisabeth Bergner.

When Child Is Objectionable, Parents Usually Are at Fault

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It's getting to be with John Jr. the way it was with the little girl described recently: Nobody likes him any more. His mother's friends dread to see her come visiting with him. "He is getting to be a little pest," they think to themselves; but for the sake of old friendship they put up with his antics.

His father's friends call him among themselves "a little brat." They bear with Johnny but privately think he deserves a smart spanking. One old friend of the little boy's father said to him the other day, "O, boy! Wait till that kid gets to college! Won't the boys give him a trimming!" And surprisingly his father in utter exasperation exclaimed: "I hope they will!"

Yes, it's getting so that nobody likes John Jr., and he is really an intelligent, physically attractive child.

It's hard while you are looking at a small boy being disagreeable, defiant, and thoroly annoying to say to yourself, "It isn't Johnny's fault at all, but entirely the fault of his parents." But we should keep this in mind because it is true. A child who makes himself objectionable to every one really is the victim of his grownups, and in the long run he is going to be a greater sufferer than they.

It isn't difficult to manage a little boy or girl or a 5 year or 6 year old. All it takes is intelligence, thoughtfulness, and real consistency.

What are some of the mistakes that parents and relatives of a boy like John make? Here are some:

They threaten and don't carry out their threats.

They promise good things and don't keep their promises.

They reprove him for an action one day and the next day laugh at it.

They deluge him with attentions, hugs, kisses, and admiration.

They quote his cute sayings and describe his amusingly naughty actions in his presence.

They give him many objects to play with, but don't try to develop his interests and abilities in constructive ways, with the right playthings and materials, and with their own attentive interest to his efforts.

These are a few fundamental errors that parents of spoiled children are guilty of.

Romanticism of 18th Century Influences Parisian Fashions

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Individualism, imagination and unconventionality mark the latest fashions of the Parisian couturiers who have revived the 18th century romanticism of Delacroix and David d'Angers in a big way.

This break from the classical forms and colors has been followed by the leading French jewelers, too. Van Cleef et Arpels have designed ruby and emerald earrings so long they drop to the shoulders. They are shown with a sheer white suit by Marcel Rochas who encircles four rows of fringes around the jacket.

Mauboussin's yard long torsade of jade is worn as a necklace to go with Bruyere's most unusual gown, whose skirt is made of Roman striped crepe de chine and whose bodice is of pink lace.

In the realm of high fashion coiffures, Guillaume introduces the idea of smoothly draping the hair from the nape to the crown and entwining it in Boucheron's cord of multihued jewels.

'This Nettle Danger' . . . By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright, 1945, By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: In the feud between nomesteaders and cattlemen, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded, after shooting Ben Randall. At the ranch of Cliff Applegate, Bruce's chief enemy and brother-in-law of Jeff Randall, father of Ben, Cliff's daughter Linda hides Bruce and threatens to leave home unless they permit him to remain until he is able to travel. Ben recovers, but Jeff quarrels bitterly with Cliff for sheltering Bruce, claiming Cliff has double crossed the cattlemen. A former Rough Rider, Bruce goes to Washington and gets the President's promise to investigate the feud. Two government men arrive and are guests at the Randall ranch. Jeff conspires with Cairns to frame the homesteaders. They plan a fake raid. Cairns is to get Bruce's ranch should anything happen to Bruce. Their spy, Flack, steals and plants Bruce's hat. Cairns and Jeff fear Flack may weaken under pressure and Jeff pays Quint Milroy to kill him. Flack's diary shows he was paid by Jeff for spying. The cattlemen turn against Randall. Orders come from Washington to take down all fences enclosing government land. Linda is spied upon by Cairns, while bathing. Her brother beats up Cairns and Cliff adds a lashing. Jeff suggests that Cairns get even with Linda by doing away with Bruce, with whom she is in love. A witness to Flack's murder, Tepley, poses as a deputy sheriff and identifies Milroy as the murderer. Word gets around Tepley is the witness. Bruce and Cliff try to warn the sheriff. Bruce, Cliff, the sheriff, and Tepley are ambushed by Milroy and Cairns, but Bruce captures Milroy. Rod demands his father fire Cairns, but arranges Milroy's escape to keep him from talking. Jeff takes provisions to a cabin for Milroy and finds Cairns there. Cairns kills Jeff and while making a getaway is seen by Linda. His impulse is to kill her, but he's afraid she won't alone. At a cabin in the hills he finds Milroy.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

A WARNING

Rod Randall turned in at the side road leading to the Bar B B. He wanted to find out how Cliff was getting along and to drop a hint for relay to Sherrill.

A rider cutting across the pasture waved a hand at him. He pulled up to wait for Linda. She had been down to the box to get the mail, she said, and had ridden a few miles farther for the fun of it.

"Have a good ride?" he asked.

After a second's hesitation she told him it had been all right. She did not want to tell him or any of her family that she had met Bill Cairns and had a harrowing experience with him.

They found a horse tied at the hitch rack in front of the house. Linda recognized the pony and her pulse began to quicken.

"Mr. Bruce Sherrill paying a neighborly call," Rod drawled. This suited him since his visit had to do with the owner of the Quartercircle D C.

Cliff Applegate was lying on the sofa in the parlor talking with Bruce. Linda said, her voice casual, "I think you know Rod, Mr. Sherrill."

"We have met," Rod said dryly.

Bruce laughed. "We have what you might call a shooting acquaintance. Every time we meet, his friends are making a target of me."

"Not friends of mine," Rod differed. "My friends fight in the open. Not that I'd wear any mourning if one of these brush skunks shot straight for a change."

Cliff Applegate brought his fist down. "It's time we ran the scoundrels out of the country, Rod. This fight about the fencing is over. We lost it when the government made its decision. These bushwhackers are paying off private grudges. The good citizens of the country won't stand for it. Either these assassins quit or we hunt them down like wolves."

Rod's next remark seemed on the surface to bear no relation to what Applegate had said. "By the way, there was a jail break this morning at Redrock," he mentioned.

"Quint Milroy?" Linda asked.

"Right first time," Rod answered.

Bruce was not much surprised. "How did he pull it off?"

"Threw down on Schmidt with a sixshooter when he brought him his breakfast. Somebody must have slipped him a gun. He locked Schmidt up, walked out of the jail, and found a saddled horse waiting for him in some cottonwoods near."

"Same fellow who gave him the gun left the horse," Cliff said with decision. "Whose horse was it?"

"Horse not yet identified," Rod smiled, blandly. "Glad I'm in the clear. I dropped in on Quint yesterday to talk over getting him a defense lawyer to fight the silly charge he killed Flack. Humphreys is a suspicious soul. He searched me before he would let me see Quint."

"Surely nobody would suspect you," Bruce said, without a smile.

"Does anybody know where Milroy went after he got away?" Linda asked. "He wouldn't come back here, would he?"

Rod rolled and lit a cigaret. "When I talked with him the day before the getaway he didn't mention his destination. But he did say something about unfinished business in this district."

A cold wind blew thru Linda. "What did he mean?"

"That's anybody's guess," Rod answered. "What do you think he meant, Sherrill?"

"How would I know?" Bruce replied.

"He's a little annoyed at you for some reason. Maybe he doesn't like being slammed over the head with a rifle barrel. Quint is a proud man. Nobody ever got the best of him before. It got under his skin to be lugged off to jail like a drunken cowboy. He doesn't blame Humphreys. That is what a sheriff is paid for. I don't think I would like to be the man he has it in for."

"If I were the man I would be grateful to the one who had told me," Bruce said carelessly.

"If you were the man," Randall returned, "it would be a good idea to stay under cover until Quint had said a permanent good-by to this part of the country."

Linda knew that Rod would not take the trouble to warn Bruce unless the danger was urgent. He had, of course, contrived to free Milroy, yet he had stopped to get her father to warn Bruce of his peril. The man had unpredictable impulses. She guessed some instinct for fair play in him had been the motive.

She had given her heart to this man who had been an enemy of them all. The two men were much alike. But there was one essential difference. In spite of his recklessness Bruce was dependable.

Bruce arose and said he must be going.

"I'll ride with you far as the junction," Rod suggested.

Cliff would not hear of it. "You'll both stay for supper.

While they ate, Cliff proposed that Sherrill remain at the Bar B B for a few days and help with the stock. One of the boys could ride over and tell Ramrod he would not be home.

Bruce shook his head. He was sorry, but he had to get back to the ranch. He had ridden over to find out how Applegate was getting along, but just now they were too busy at the Quartercircle D C for him to be gone long.

This was the answer Linda had expected, but she could not let it rest as final.

"Why don't you stay with us?" she asked. "You know Rod wouldn't have said what he did if he weren't sure this Milroy means to kill you."

"'The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gley,'" he quoted. "Milroy is just a man, the same as I am."

"He's a terrible man. He won't give you a chance. If you stayed here you would be safe."

"Safe and shamed," he said.

"You men are all alike. You are afraid some one will think you afraid."

"Maybe," he agreed, "but I can't skulk here in hiding from any man and keep my self-respect."

"Why not?" she urged. "You have given me proof you are not a coward. To set yourself up for a mark to be shot from ambush isn't bravery. It's foolhardiness."

"What would you think of your brother Brand if he crept into a hole because somebody thought perhaps a desperado was looking for him?"

"There isn't any perhaps about this, Bruce. Milroy told Tim Humphreys he would get you soon as he was free. He must have told Rod that, too. They say he has killed a dozen men. He'll sneak up on you like an Indian. Don't go and let yourself be killed."

"I'm not going to be killed," he promised. "I never had as much to live for as now."

Opening lead: Jack of spades.

While five new champions were crowned at the national tournament of the American Contract Bridge league, recently held in Brooklyn, no new humor on the subject of trees [worthy to be recorded] was produced at the function, and this despite numerous efforts in that direction.

The first event concluded was the Mixed Team of Four which was won in a close finish by Mrs. W. Wagar of Atlanta, Miss Ruth Sherman of New York, John R. Crawford of Philadelphia, and W. von Zedtwitz of New York. Today's hand is culled from that event. It is simple and neat, tho by no means gaudy. The bidding and opening lead as shown in the diagram above, took place at both tables.

Where Olive Peterson playing with Sidney Silodor, was West and declarer she won the opening lead with the king of spades and recognized that she would have to get the best of the breaks to bring home nine tricks. A heart trick would have to be established and the clubs must break 3-3 if the contract was to meet with success, but the important consideration was, that while all this washing was being done, it was compulsory to keep North out of the lead, for another spade lead thru dummy would sink the ship. Mrs. Peterson therefore returned a club immediately and when North was not alert and followed with the six she played the eight from dummy, forcing South to win the trick. With the subsequent guess of the jack of hearts she succeeded in fulfilling her contract.

At the other table, West led a club at trick two as before, but Mrs. Sobel was not to be caught napping, she realized the danger of having a club trick passed to her partner and inserted the 10. Declarer went up with the ace but this permitted your reporter to drop the queen with complete ease of mind. In this way the club trick was transferred to North and permitted the spade lead thru. However, when declarer realized what had happened he temporarily abandoned the clubs suit and established a heart trick, thus assuring himself of eight tricks and was down only one.

Olive Peterson teamed with Mrs. B. M. Golder of Philadelphia won the national women's pair championship, in decisive fashion over a very impressive field.

COMPLETE FEMININE HYGIENE DEMANDS:

MUCH has been written about feminine hygiene. But too often women overlook hygiene in the REAL sense of the word—under-arm cleanliness and sweetness. You cannot be attractive with under-arms moist, stained and smelly. Use Arrid, the new cream deodorant.

1. Does not irritate skin. Does not rot dresses and men's shirts.
2. Prevents under-arm odor. Helps stop perspiration safely.
3. A pure, white, antiseptic, stainless vanishing cream.
4. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
5. Awarded Approval Seal of American Institute of Laundering — harmless to fabric. Use Arrid regularly.

More women use Arrid than any other deodorant. 39¢ and 59¢ (plus tax) at any store which sells toilet goods.

A Widow Has Right to Make 2d Marriage

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There are plenty of cases of young women sacrificing themselves by giving up the chance to marry because their mothers weep and wail at the thought of being left alone. But it is not often that one hears of the tables being turned and a grown daughter tries to keep her mother from making a second marriage.

A woman of 48 writes us that she is in just such a position. A widow, she has known a man a few years older than herself for five years, and they now want to get married. Her daughter who is 23 and has a good job says it is not right for her to get married, and if she does she refuses to live with her and the man.

This certainly is a selfish attitude on the daughter's part. Were she younger, still with the need of a mother's care and guidance, and for some reason disliked the man her mother wished to marry, we could see why the mother would hesitate to take a step that would make her daughter unhappy. But surely, now that the daughter is old enough to make her own life and is holding down a job, the older woman has discharged her maternal duties and should be permitted to find happiness in her middle age.

Suppose she does give up this chance to make a second marriage. The chances are that her daughter at any time may meet a man, fall in love, and marry. It might be in the near future or it might not be for several years. By then it probably will be too late for the mother to start a new life. Since the daughter's husband, if he is normal, will prefer to set up housekeeping without benefit of mother-in-law, the mother will be left out on a limb.

Close of War Gives Impetus to Debut Plans

On the Calendar

Saturday will be Governor's day at the Knollwood Country club, which is planning a program of golfing events for men and women and an informal dinner, limited to club members, in honor of their fellow members, Gov. and Mrs. Green. Gov. and Mrs. Green, who have been spending the summer in Chicago, are giving a dinner party followed by dancing on Friday night in the Saddle and Cycle club. Their elder daughter, Miss Nancy Green, is entering Smith college this month. She was graduated in June from high school in Springfield.

The woman's board of the La Rabida sanitarium is planning a luncheon and bridge party on Nov. 5 in the Congress hotel. The La Rabida benefit will be the first big party in the famous Gold room of the newly reopened hotel. The room has been restored to its pre-war appearance. Mrs. N. H. Jacobsen and Mrs. Harry Culver are co-chairmen of the party. The sanitarium cares for children with heart disease.

Youngsters of the Wayne-Bartlett-Wheaton-Geneva-St. Charles district who compete in a pony and pet show Sunday at the Dunham Woods Riding club will have special reason to put on their best performances when they see the trophies contributed for the show. A number of treasures which would appeal to any young heart have been given as trophies, including a hand painted doll trunk holding a doll and her complete wardrobe. Will Judy will judge the dog and pet division of the show, which starts at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. William Swift will be ring steward, and William Bangs, announcer.

There will be a trick horse exhibition and ponies to rent both for rides and for young contestants who do not own their own mounts. The Wayne Boy and Girl Scouts will supervise the pop concession. Mrs. Charles H. Comin, who will supply entry blanks to those wishing them, is urging spectators to turn in their reservations early for parking spaces, which will sell for $3 a car.

Wedding News

Sept. 13 is the date set for the marriage of Miss Abigail Fithian Halsey, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Halsey of Chicago and Southampton, N. Y., formerly of Cincinnati, to Lt. James Alfred Van Allen of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Van Allen of Mount Pleasant, Ia. Miss Halsey, a graduate of Mount Holyoke college, has been doing war work thru the Johns Hopkins university applied physics laboratory in Silver Springs, Md. Her father is professor of pastoral theology and liturgies at McCormick seminary. He was pastor of the Seventh Presbyterian church of Cincinnati for 28 years, moderator of the synod of Ohio in 1940 and 1941, and was with Sir Wilfred Grenfell's mission in Labrador from 1910 to 1913.

Lt. Van Allen was graduated from Iowa Wesleyan university and received the degree of doctor of philosophy in physics from the University of Iowa. After serving 16 months in the Pacific, he is stationed in Washington, D. C.

THE QUESTION

Do you think we should have compulsory high school education for all students less than 18?

WHERE ASKED

Chicago theater.

THE ANSWERS

Nancy Bogue, student, 1208 Hull terr., Evanston—Growing boys and girls should be able to mingle with children of their age. It builds up their character. I don't think any student should be taken away from school or be allowed to quit after eight grades. They may not realize it but they will miss school.

Ardis Kuhnen, student, 1100 Ridge av., Evanston—If a vote were taken I would favor compulsory high school education. It widens the range of interest and teaches people to cooperate. I don't think a child of 13 or 14 is ready to quit school and go to work—it isn't fair to the child or to society, in the long run.

Pvt. Albert J. Grillo, 321 W. 25th pl.—Most people who didn't go to high school when they had the opportunity are sorry they did not. I think it would be a good idea if it were compulsory, then children and parents would not make a mistake that may hamper an individual's chances for success in the future.

Chuck Robinson, student, Green Bay, Wis.—Yes, I think high school should be compulsory in order that people will be more able to cope with the problems of this changing world. Education is becoming more and more important on the farm, too. Experience and an education make farming easier.

Mrs. Robert Gull, housewife, 5122 School st.—Perhaps high school should be compulsory. There are a lot of youngsters who don't seem to know what they want to do. If some one else made the wiser choice for them they would have nothing to decide. It would help parents to send children to high school.

Mary E. Dunley, student, Des Moines, Ia.—Lots of people don't want an education. They don't want to go to school. But those are the ones who need education most. I think education should be compulsory at least to the 12th grade. For their personal happiness children should prepare themselves for a better future.

Boys Advised: Brush Up on Car Courtesies

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Now that gas rationing is fast becoming a dim and awful memory and you can wheel into a filling station and make that almost forgotten request to "fill 'er up," cars once again will become an important addition to many a Friday night date. So in case you've forgotten your pre-war car courtesies, now is a good time to brush up on them.

Perhaps you remember back to the days when a fellow hopped out as soon as he stopped the car, skirted the bumper, and opened the door for his date. And that's one thing the war hasn't changed, so hop to it, fellow!

You'll have to get used to the traffic signals all over, too, now that you're behind the wheel again. If you watch the line in the middle of the road, signal when making a left turn or stopping, and keep a wary eye out for arterials and stop signs, you'll be much more likely to reach home with as many fenders on the car as when you started out.

And even tho you may think you're an expert on fingertip driving, the routine where you rest three fingers of your right hand lightly on the wheel and dangle your other arm out the window, it isn't smart. Perhaps it does look graceful, but it doesn't work very well when you have to make a sudden turn or in the event that one of your war-weary tires blows.

So any smart fellow will forsake that "casual" look for actual safety. Perhaps your girl is impressed by your mastery of the machine, but chances are that expression on her face that you mistook for admiration is just plain fright.

It probably feels wonderful to go whizzing around in your little bus after all the walking you've been doing recently, but there's no need to have yourself arrested for flying too low. If your speedometer begins to look like an altimeter and you have to let down the landing flaps every time you slow down for a red light, take it easy! It's great to be driving again, but don't do anything Buck Rogers wouldn't do!

Sept. 4, 1945

BY MARY MEADE

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

This year's apple crop is only about half of last year's, and that's a disappointment. But juicy, rosy Jonathans are here to supplement the sauce apples, and they make mighty good munching. Peaches are still abundant, consolation for the shortage of apples, perhaps.

Peaches, pears, and plums should be canned now, if they haven't been. The plum harvest will be over in a week or two. There are more California grapes than we had last year, so fruit platters can be piled high and colorfully.

Potatoes and cabbage are two of the abundant vegetables now available. I have a collection of not-so-usual recipes for each, which I shall be glad to send to any interested reader in return for a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Please specify whether you wish one or both collections.

Green tomatoes make a delicious broiled or sauteed vegetable. Slice them without peeling, salt and pepper, dip the slices in slightly beaten egg, then into fine bread or cracker crumbs, and saute in a little butter or margarine, or brush over with fat and broil on a greased baking sheet, turning with a pancake turner.

Green tomato pie is wonderful, but a luxury in these days of skimpy fat and sugar rations. Use of a lattice upper crust will save on pastry.

Green Tomato Pie

4 cups sliced green tomatoes
1½ cups white or brown sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon
Pastry for 9 inch pie

Combine sugar, salt, flour, and cornstarch. Dust some of the mixture over bottom of pastry lined pie pan. Arrange sliced tomatoes in pan and cover with remaining mixture. Sprinkle lemon juice and rind over top and dot with butter. Adjust top crust or pastry strips. Bake pie at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 25 minutes longer.

Evaporated milk helps to make homemade salad dressings rich flavored and creamy. Top milk or cream could be substituted in this recipe.

Cooked Salad Dressing

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Few grains cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons sugar or light corn sirup
1 egg or 2 yolks
1 cup evaporated milk
¼ cup lemon juice or vinegar

Blend dry ingredients, add egg, and mix well. Add milk and cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Cool and add lemon juice or vinegar, stirring it in a small amount at a time.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 3—Metro has about $600,000 worth of stories on its shelves — among them "Green Dolphin Street." They haven't been able to lick that one yet. They don't believe fans will understand a man who's in love with two sisters, finally makes up his mind about one, writes a letter of proposal, then sends it to the wrong girl because he has forgotten the name of the girl of his choice. Another story they have is "Taps for Pvt. Tussie." That can be written off as a war casualty. They also have "History of Rome Hanks." . . . Robert Alda has a change of pace coming up. His next will be "Ring Out the Old" in which he plays a philosophical cab driver on New Year's eve in New York. The whole action takes place in five hours. . . . Jack Moss' next for Columbia will be "My Pal Joey," from the stage play. . . . Barry Fitzgerald will do one picture for Metro.

It's Hope in a Double Take

Bob Hope tells about the creepy feeling he got when he looked at himself in Paris in "The Cat and the Canary." He was speaking French. Later a French delegation waited for him and started chattering away. Finally he said, "Sorry, me no speakee English." . . . Gertrude Lawrence wired me: "I don't know who started the rumor that I want to play myself. I wrote a book — not a screen play. If a film is made of it, I should be delighted to see myself portrayed by any of the fine Hollywood actresses." . . . Miss Lawrence did a command performance before the queen of England and her two daughters. She commented on the fine tone of their piano. "We borrowed it," chirped the younger princess.

Happy Hunting for a Title

Well, it's all over now between Barbara Hutton and Cary Grant. "He was cruel," said she. "He didn't like my friends." But she didn't say how much she disliked his. Now that the war's over, will she go back to Europe and get herself another title? Being called "my lady" does something to an American they never seem to be able to get over. Maybe it's because they love those little embroidered crests peeping out from the most unexpected places. Well, all we can say is—who's next? . . . At the Bud Abbotts the other night, the Elliott Roosevelts brought Blaze to the party. He stole the spotlight from everybody. Finally, Margaret Lindsay gave the the dog a shove and said, "Go on, you've had too much publicity already." Faye Emerson came with her brunette hair piled high on the top of her head. It took the part of a night club singer in a picture to get it up there. I always thought that brought it down. . . . Charles Laughton wears what the well dressed ham should wear in "Because of Him." Even his cuff links are 18th century Wedgwood. He stole them from his wife, Elsa.

She Does It Every Time

After Paulette Goddard's first love scene with Hurd Hatfield in "Diary of a Chambermaid," her husband, Burgess Meredith, and Director Jean Renoir rewrote the love scenes, and Paulette made them even hotter than the script called for. On the final day's shooting, Francis Lederer went home with scratches and a lame back. No, Paulette didn't do it — Hatfield administered the blows. I asked Renoir what he considered the greatest picture he'd ever seen. He thought a minute, then replied, "I believe it's 'Greed,' which starred Zasu Pitts and was made by Eric Von Stroheim 25 years ago." . . . Family night at the Mocambo — Louis B. Mayer, Joseph Schenck, and Sonja Henie in one party, David Selznick and Jack Warner in another, and Jennifer Jones in still a third. The George Burnses and the Jack Bennys also stepped out. Then there was an anniversary party for the Norman Chandlers. . . . No chance for a reconciliation between the Johnny Weissmullers. He has already picked out a swimming champ—Brenda Helser. She's right purty, too, and he has given her a ring.

Making Hay

Shirley Temple, after the "Kiss and Tell" preview, took her fiance's sister, Mary, to the Brown Derby for supper. She went table hopping and introduced her to all the people she knew. They stopped longest to chat with Walter Abel and his young sons. Abel played her father in the film. . . . John Wayne regrets his divorce won't be final until November. He has a month's vacation coming up now, but he'll be working then. . . . Kay Kyser is back from the Philippines. His gang did a great job over there. . . . Ingrid Bergman's last picture for David Selznick will be "Notorious." When that's finished, she goes immediately to New York to do a play, which, says Ingrid, will be another door opened to her. She hopes she'll be as welcome there as she was here. She says the greatest opportunity of her life, however, was playing for our boys in Germany. "I didn't believe a city as large as Berlin could be wiped out. There's no place to live, the water's bad, and there's very little food. They're in for a horrible winter." She says Jack Benny was wonderful to work for.

Rich Velveteen Tempts Career Girl Shoppers

BY REA SEEGER

Velveteen, that urbane fall charmer, comes to town in time to help solve the problem for the career girls who wish to acquire a fall and winter wardrobe before everything is snatched out from under their fingers. Since a price mark is as important as a new silhouette and a new color, a certain velveteen collection of two piece suits rates competition among the early bird career girl shoppers. The main attraction is a one-button suit, sleek, superlatively fitted and detailed, and made of velveteen of very flattering colors and depth of pile.

The color range includes good foundation shades with which to team such accessories as ascot scarves, blouses, hats, bags, gloves, and jewelry. Red, black, a deep blue, brown, green, and gray provide wide enough selection to suit the fussiest career girl or any other fashion wise woman. The colors are rich and flattering. The one-button jacket has a trick indented neckline the better to show off any bright colored ascot or blouse bow. The sleeves are long, well cut and fitted, and without cuffs to match the collarless neckline. The skirt has just a suggestion of a flare but no plaits or other fullness. The two pieces are sold as a suit with a very modest price mark.

Such a suit doubles for a dress with ease and snap. Dress up or down with accessories from sleek tailored whiffs of pique to gala event sequins. A very dress parade hat trimmed with a band of sequins comes in five of the same colors as the suit outfit. Colors harmonize so that a hat of one shade goes smoothly with a suit of an opposite color. Along with the velveteen two-piecers and the matching velveteen hat, is a knockout showing of blouses, scarves, bags, gloves, and other trivia with a new fall flavor in fashion as well as color.

BUSHER WINS WASHINGTON HANDICAP; SETS RECORD

45,000 CHEER COAST FILLY IN $58,300 RACE

Armed Is Second, Take Wing Third

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Busher, Louis B. Mayer's amazing filly, gave a record crowd of 45,000 Labor day celebrants all she had yesterday at Washington park. She not only breezed off with the 18th running of the $58,300 Washington Park handicap, but clipped a fifth of a second off the track mark for a mile and a quarter, going the distance in 2:01 4/5 under a smart ride by Johnny Longden.

Another record also fell during the afternoon when $2,281,043 was wagered on the nine race program. The previous high was registered July 4, when the betting totaled $2,092,018. The old attendance mark was 41,706, set on Labor day a year ago. Yesterday's net proceeds went to charity.

Armed Finishes Second

Busher's victory, her eighth in 10 starts this season, was scored thru a grand stretch run which relegated Calumet Farm's brilliant Armed to second place, a length and a half in back, and the veteran Take Wing, to third. Pot o' Luck, running as an entry with Armed, was fourth in a 13-horse field.

The triumph, which was worth $40,200 to the Hollywood film magnate, raised Busher's earnings for two years of racing to $270,120 and placed her within $5,780 of Top Flight's record of $275,900.

Busher opened the favorite at 2 to 1, but when the band had reached the post she was down to 7 to 5 with the Calumet entry second choice at 3 to 1 and Take Wing a 20 to 1 shot. Busher paid $4.80, $3.40, and $2.60 in the mutuels. Armed returned $3.60 and $3.20. Take Wing returned $6.20 to show. The handle of $330,953 on the race established a new Illinois record.

Leon Tikulski's Icangetit, with Billy Nichols up, shot out of the gate on top, closely followed by Brownell Combs' Durazna, ridden by Billy Thompson, and Busher. It was an excellent get-away for all. Then Durazna took a head lead as Mrs. E. E. D. Shaffer's Porpoise challenged and hung on for the first half mile with Busher third.

Busher Goes to Town

At three quarters Durazna still was out in front, but Busher began to close in on the second place Porpoise, catching him with lengthening strides as the mile was spun off. At this point Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Sirde made his bid, but soon fell back as Armed and Take Wing made their challenges.

Busher was running all out as the field hit the stretch turn and moved to a three length advantage over the fast-moving Armed and the onrushing Take Wing which came up on the outside as Jockey Art Fischer brought his whip into play. Armed and Take Wing were moving up, but it appeared that Busher was just coasting as they passed the last sixteenth pole.

The finish wasn't even close, tho Busher's margin had been reduced to a length and a half as Armed slipped across a length in front of Take Wing. Mrs. Clyde Troutt's game old stake horse.

Durazna, the 4 year old filly which had handed Busher her only beating during the Washington Park meeting and which engaged the War Admiral filly in a $25,000 match race recently and lost by three-quarters of a length, wound up absolutely last.

Busher will go to California now to participate in several fall and winter stake events.

ATTENDANCE RECORD

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—A one-day attendance record was set in America's turf history today as 340,974 holiday fans jammed the race tracks. Today's betting figures totaling $14,520,776 fell short of the record $14,718,844 poured into the mutuel machines by 310,588 persons on July 4.

SID LUCKMAN'S ARRIVAL IS BIG TOPIC FOR BEARS

Collegeville, Ind., Sept. 3 [Special]—The Bears are waiting for the expected arrival of Sid Luckman, but they're not loafing while they're waiting. They expect the veteran quarter back to arrive any hour now and are sure he'll be calling plays and throwing the football a week from tomorrow night when the Bears meet the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field. Sid is in the maritime service.

Today the squad of 24, with Tackle Al Hoptowit as its newest member, went thru all the running plays. Tomorrow the passing maneuvers will be reviewed and by this time it is hoped the dozen new players will have more than a vague idea about the famous T-formation man in motion system popularized by the Bears.

Season Opens Sept. 30

Tho they are primarily pointing toward the nonchampionship game with George Marshall's Redskins, the Bears are thinking a lot about their Sept. 30 National Football league opener with the Packers in Green Bay. The Bears are determined to make a comeback this year. Today Co-coach Luke Johnsos, a cautious individual, admitted the team should be at least a trifle stronger than in 1944.

The Bears have abandoned earlier plans to experiment with Mitchell, the pro freshman from the University of Tulsa. He was told today to concentrate at right half back, where the coaches expect he will plug the gap caused by the announced retirement of Ray [Scooter] McLean.

Return to Chicago Monday

The Bears will come into Chicago next Monday and work out that evening in Soldiers' field. They will return to their camp here at St. Joseph's college, then leave Sept. 16 for Bethlehem, Pa., there to play the Philadelphia Eagles an exhibition on Sept. 18.

Athletics Buy Mosser, Portland Left Hander

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 3 (AP)—Wendell Mosser, a left handed pitcher, has been purchased from Portland of the Pacific Coast league for an undisclosed amount of cash and three players, the Philadelphia Athletics reported today. Mosser, 24, has won 10 and lost five this year. He will report to the A's next spring.

Parker Wins Over Talbert in Net Final

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 3—Sgt. Frank Parker defeated Bill Talbert of Wilmington, Del., today for the second straight year in the finals of the 64th National single championship tournament.

A crowd of 15,000 saw the match.

Despite his injury, Talbert was able to come back and help win the men's doubles final, which had been interrupted Sunday because of darkness after 60 games. Talbert and Navy Lt. Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., starting with a 10-10 count in the third set, beat Air Cadet Bobby Falkenburg of Hollywood, Cal., and Seaman Jack Tuero of New Orleans, 12-10, 8-10, 12-10, 6-2.

The third title decided today went to Louise Brough of Los Angeles and Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, who took the women's doubles championships for the fourth year in succession and thereby equaled a record set by Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan Cooke. The Brough-Osborne team whipped Pauline Betz of Los Angeles and Doris Hart of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-4, 6-4.

BUSHER, rated along under a steady hold to the last five-sixteenths, raced into command with a rush and continuing with fine speed, held ARMED safe. Latter, well up from the start, was between horses much of the trip, moved clear with good response approaching the last eighth and continued with determination to end. TAKE WING started up after seven-eighths, swerved slightly in the stretch and, finishing steadily, was getting to the leaders.

PIRATES PUSH CARDS 4 GAMES OUT OF LEAD

St. Louis Defeated, 6-5 and 6-2

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 4 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals dropped to four full games behind the league leading Chicago Cubs today as they lost a double header to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5 and 6 to 2, while the Cubs were whipping Cincinnati twice.

Manager Billy Southworth tried a full assortment of his hurling staff on the Pirates, but when they didn't serve up home run pitches they missed the plate entirely, with the result being all the same.

In the first game, the Pirates hit four home runs, Jim Russell and Pete Coscarart getting one each and Bill Salkeld getting two.

Pitchers Go Fast

Neither Ted Wilks, who started the first game for the Cards, nor Blix Donnelly, who opened the second, lasted long enough to get well warmed up. Wilks went out in the second inning, and Donnelly was removed in the first inning of the second game, issuing four walks and allowing two hits without a putout.

Fritz Ostermueller failed to finish the first game, but he received credit for the victory. He held the Cards to six hits in 7⅓ innings. Preacher Roe allowed seven hits and struck out 11 in the second game.

Lopez Ties Hartnett's Record

Al Lopez, 37, Pirate catcher, tied Gabby Hartnett's record for catching the most major league baseball games. Today's second game was his 1,793d since first appearing in a Brooklyn uniform for three games in 1928.

The Peace Time Bonnet

I had thought to write a sonnet
About Mary's peace time bonnet
But a glance at that young lady knocked my inspiration flat;
For the headpiece she was wearing
Had the city slickers staring
Since they knew by intuition that it couldn't be a hat.

'Twas a doughnut and a cherry
And a sprig of huckleberry Covered with a silver netting to protect it from the birds;
But the lady's deep elation
Over this absurd creation,
Which hung just above her eyebrow, was too comical for words.

People looked at her in wonder
Feeling sure she'd made the blunder
Of mistaking that day's luncheon for her victory chapeau;
But beholding her reliance
And her almost grim defiance
They were sure that if they wisecracked
Mary would have laid them low.

And it may be that she bought it
For a hat, altho folks thought it
Just a little bunch of soup greens that the butcher gave away:
But no one dared ask a question
Or advance a wise suggestion
For they knew the lady handled language sharp enough to slay.

Now I understand the chatter
About girls mad as a hatter
And I know it's not a phrase that people use haphazardly;
Milliners must be demented
Or they could not have invented
The strange headpiece of the present which is a monstrosity.

Pafko, Nicholson Hit Home Runs

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Cubs now lead the St. Louis Cardinals by four games, a result of glorious doings before 43,161 in yesterday's Cubs-Reds double-header in Wrigley field, and in the Pittsburgh Pirates' double header in St. Louis.

Good old Reds, who as a result of dropping two to the Cubs, 7 to 2 and 7 to 1, now have lost 19 of 20 to the Cubs, tho they have whipped the Cards 9 out of 17!

Good old Pirates, who chilled the Cards twice yesterday to bring their success total over the Cards to 9 out of 21!

Good old Cubs on general principles, even tho they have won only four of 17 from the Cards. They at least tired the faded champs so much they can't beat anybody else.

Andy Swings—Four Runs!

Good old Andy Pafko who knocked a grand slam homer off Ed Heusser, his tenth, in the first inning of the first game to make things easy for Paul Derringer to register his 15th victory. Heusser beat the Cardinals last week for another salute.

Good old Bill Nicholson who knocked a two run first inning homer to wipe out the run the Reds had made off Hank Wyse with none out in the first half of the opening inning of the second game. It was Nick's eleventh of the year and enough to win the game, tho the Cubs busted loose with a five run seventh.

The loser was good old Vern Kennedy, who beat the Cards last week, and the winner was Hy Vandenberg who rushed to Wyse's rescue with one run home and runners on third and first with none out. Thus Hy, in effect pitched a 27 putout shutout for his fifth victory of the year.

Derringer Close to Shutout

The Cubs, magnificently exuberant over their liberation from St. Louis, hopped off against the beloved Reds in the first game for five runs before the first batsman was retired, then eased on to the 7 to 2 victory. The seven runs, by the way, exactly equaled the Chicagoans' grand total in the four game series in St. Louis.

Derringer, the big ace who lasted only five innings against the Cards on Aug. 26 and only two against the Pirates on Aug. 30, revealed a splendid reversal of form against the seventh placers. Paul had his second 1945 shut-out in hand until two were out in the ninth inning, in which he tired and yielded a double and two singles after having previously held the Reds to four hits. Only one runner reached third prior to Derringer's mild bog down in the ninth.

Hack Starts Five Run Rally

The Cubs might have exceeded their run total for the entire four game series in St. Louis before any one was out in the first inning of the first game if Heusser hadn't suddenly braced after Pafko's grand slam homer had brought the Chicago total to five before the first batsman was retired.

Hack, who helped Derringer off to a futile two run lead in the first inning in Pittsburgh last Friday, started the more comforting pattern yesterday with a single to left, stopped at second on Hughes' single to second, and scored on Nicholson's single to right.

Becker drew the first of his string of passes to load the bases, then Pafko his his homer, a liner into the left field bleacher. Andy pranced home behind Hughes, Nicholson, and Becker. Lowrey, who knocked a double and a triple his next two times up and scored after each, had to be satisfied with a pop to Mesner in the first inning. Merullo, who singled his second and third times up, contributed the second out in the big first, and Derringer then grounded out to Miller. Thereafter Heusser disappeared from the scene and Fox took over at the start of the second.

Pafko Robbed of Hit

Pafko again came up with the bases loaded in the second inning, but this time Frank McCormick

ALL-STARS BEAT 3D ARMY IN GI WORLD SERIES

NUERNBERG, Germany, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Olse Base All-Stars playing brilliantly behind the four hit pitching of Leo Day of Newark, defeated the 3d army team, 2 to 1, today to even the GI world series at one victory each.

A shirt sleeved crowd of 45,000 sipped beer and soft drinks in the huge, former Nazi party stadium while watching the second game in the three out of five series that will determine the European theater baseball championship. Tomorrow the teams will move to the All-Stars' field in Reims, France, for the next two games.

Sox Drop 2 6-5 Decisions to Detroit

gled and the handy Tobin paddled his homer into the left field pavilion, after which he pitched a hitless ninth.

The Tigers started off with a run in the first game because Farrell dropped the throw on what otherwise would have been a double play. The error let Cramer score after Greenberg doubled to left. The Tiger edge went to 2 to 0 in the second inning on the York No. 14 homer which plunked into the left field seats. The Sox tied it on Curtright's No. 3 homer to left and singles by Appling and Tresh in the fourth and went ahead, for the moment, on the Appling homer in the sixth.

Sox and Humphries Wilt

Not only the Sox lead but Humphries wilted rapidly in the sixth. After Greenberg had fanned, Cullenbine singled and York doubled. Hostetler, batting for Maier, was purposely passed, after which Pinch Batter Mayo singled Cullenbine and York across. Then a single by Borom opened the seventh and Humphries went away. Before Johnson could complete the inning two more Tigers had scored as the result of a single by Greenberg and double by Cullenbine.

A wild pitch mixed with singles by Curtright and Cuccinello gave the Sox a run in the eighth and also brought about the dismissal of Bridges. Then in the ninth Moses doubled off Caster and scored when John Dickshot, batting for Schalk, doubled, but the Sox subsided quickly, leaving the tying run on second base.

Moses Opens with Double

The second game opened with a double by Moses who scored on a single by Hockett. The assault against Benton continued with Curtright walking, Appling and Baker singling and Bill Nagel doubling, all of which netted four runs and brought forth Tobin. In the Tigers half Mayo singled and after two were out Grove walked Greenberg and Cullenbine, filling the bases. York's single scored two and Outlaw doubled one more across. Then Joe Hoover's triple and Roger Cramer's single against Dietrich in the second tied the score and so it remained until the eighth.

robbed him of a hit with a slick stop and force throw to Miller.

The Cubs scored their sixth run in the third on Lowrey's double and singles by Merullo and Derringer. They added the seventh and final marker in the fifth on Lowrey's triple and Merullo's single.

Derringer missed his shutout in the following maner: Libke opened the ninth with a single and was forced by McCormick, who in turn was forced by Mesner. Miller then doubled off the left field wall, scoring Mesner, and Lakeman singled to right, scoring Miller.

Wyse Leaves Quickly

Wyse's fourth try for his 19th victory in the second game was of short duration and so was his worry about the possibility of absorbing his 10th loss.

Clay opened the game with a single to left and stole second. Tipton beat out a high bounder, Clay stopping at third. Libke lined a single to right, Clay scoring and Tipton taking third. Manager Charley Grimm went to the mound, patted Wyse on the back and summoned Vandenberg. McCormick lined to Nicholson and Libke was doubled at first, Tipton holding third. Hughes threw out Mesner.

Kennedy walked Hack on five pitches at the start of the Cub offensive. Hughes filed to Tipton, then Nicholson drove the ball onto the catwalk at the end of the right field bleacher, scoring behind his roomie, Stanislaus.

Hy Tight in Pinches

Vandenberg shook off a leadoff single by Miller in the second inning, a double by Tipton in the third and a leadoff single by McCormick in the fourth, but his smothering technique in these instances was no better than in the fifth when Wahl and Kennedy knocked singles with one out. Then Hy struck out Clay and Tipton lined to Merullo.

The Cubs' second scoring outbreak transpired as follows: With one out in the seventh Hack singled and stole second. Hughes grounded out and Nicholson was given his second intentional pass. Becker singled to center, scoring Hack and Pafko singled to center scoring Nicholson. Lowrey singled to left, scoring Becker, Pafko taking third and Lowrey second on the throw to third. Merullo doubled to left center, scoring Pafko and Lowrey. The fourth ball to Williams was a wild pitch on which Merullo reached third. When a pitch got away from Unser, Merullo tried to score but was out, Unser to Kennedy.

The Cubs will rest today and tomorrow will greet the Giants in a double header. Ray Prim and Claude Passeau will pitch for the league leaders.

HOGAN WINS IN NASHVILLE OPEN GOLF WITH 265

Nelson Ties for Second, 4 Strokes Back

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 3 (AP) Ben Hogan won the Nashville Open tournament with a score of 265 today.

Hogan, playing in his third event of the year, blazed in with a final round 66, five under par, to triumph by four strokes.

Byron Nelson, seeking his 17th major victory of the year, folded on the final hole and wound up with a 68 that left him in a tie for second place with Johnny Bulla of Atlanta. They had 269s.

It was Hogan's first victory since he won the Rochester, N. Y., open in 1942, shortly before his entrance into service. It was worth $2,666 in war bonds.

His total of 265 was 19 under par and was only two strokes back of the all-time tournament record set by Nelson in Atlanta last spring.

Bulla rushed in with a 65 to gain his tie with Nelson.

In fourth position with 270 was Jimmy Hines, who carded a windup 67.

Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., slipped to a 69 and dropped into a fifth place tie at 271 with a pair of sharpshooting amateurs—Bob Cochran of St. Louis and Flight Officer Frank Stranahan of Maxwell field, Ala.

Toronto Beats All-Stars in Soccer, 6 to 0

BY OFFSIDE

The King Edward team of Toronto, Canada, gave Winnemac Park stadium fans a lesson in soccer yesterday and during the course of instruction defeated the Chicago All-Stars, 6 to 0.

A crowd of 3,000 saw the Canadians take advantage of practically every scoring opportunity and then frustrate every offensive thrust by the All-Stars.

Amos Woodward opened the scoring in the first period, tallying from five yards. Ernie Schaef and Ernie Kuehl momentarily stymied the speedy Woodward, but he added another goal after an opening was made by Danny Dawson.

The second period had only been under way for a matter of three minutes when Don Bain tallied. Then followed goals in quick succession by Dawson and Alex Cooper. The best solo of the game was reserved for the closing minutes when Harry McQuestin, beating no less than four opponents, hooked past Bill Stein for the final marker. Stein was injured on the play and John Csonka of the Schwabens took his place in the nets. Lineups:

All-Stars (0)		King Edward (6)

Tar Baby Wins Jackson Park Yacht Race

Tar Baby, Hugo Griffin's 58 foot cutter, led a 36 yacht fleet across Lake Michigan yesterday to win the Jackson Park Yacht club's race for the Commodore Fred Noble trophy. The 34½ mile run from Michigan City, Ind., to Jackson park harbor, last leg of the Tri-State race which began last Friday, was sailed in a moderate south wind. Tar Baby, a Chicago Yacht club 10 meter boat, covered the course in the near record time of 3 hours 54 minutes and 10 seconds.

Sparkle Wins Trophy

Sparkle, Dr. Ed Reinholtzen's 35 foot cutter, won the Hamilton club trophy, awarded by the Chicago Yacht club for highest point scoring cruising yacht on all three legs of the course. The yacht was sailed by its owner, with Ernest Heinemann, William Kuhlman, Fred Johnson, and William van Benschoten. Sparkle had 57 out of a possible 60 points. Safara, Lew Gilbert's R class racer, won the Chicago Yacht club's Harry Sinclair trophy for the highest number of points in the Universal division, 50 out of a possible 51 points. Safara's crew consisted of its owner, Lew Gilbert, Homer Dodge, Hal Redmon, and William Ahern. Summaries:

30 Report for Opening Fall Drill at N. U.

Fall football practice opened at Northwestern university yesterday as 30 players reported to Coach Lynn Waldorf at Dyche stadium. The opening day turnout was curtailed by the Labor day holiday, most of the navy trainees being away on leave and a number of civilians having gone home for the week-end. A full complement of 60 players is expected by the end of the week.

This year's team will possess a higher proportion of civilian players than any of the war time elevens. The roster includes 35 civilians, all but a few of whom are freshmen.

Only two letter men were on hand for the opening workout. They were Max Morris, end, and Steve Bennett, tackle. Morris, a member of the navy V-12 unit, was voted the most valuable player on the team last year in THE TRIBUNE contest to select the pick of the Western conference.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

MANAGEMENT'S PROBLEMS RISE WITH WAR'S END

Despite large accumulated savings of consumers and an unprecedented demand for all kinds of goods, the production and marketing departments of many industries have a number of problems to solve in the post-war period, the American Management Association said yesterday in its annual report.

The association, a nonprofit organization devoted to expediting solution of management problems, said production managers are aware that intensified competition will emphasize the need for cost reduction if a company is to maintain its competitive position.

Cost Consciousness Needed

"It will require all the energy, understanding, and determination that management can exercise to achieve a return to true cost consciousness," the association said. "Management will recognize that altho production no longer occupies the glamorous role it did when the demands of war were most urgent, the need for development of cost reduction measures in plants will loom more importantly than ever.

"Exacting budgetary controls must be reëstablished and some financial executives believe it may be desirable to introduce incentive measures to assure successful performance of these controls."

The problems of the marketing departments concern both the customer and the individual companies' selling staffs, the association said.

Must Redevelop Good Will

"In the marketing field companies are faced with the task of winning back the good will of customers who think they have been dealt with unjustly during the years of shortages, and concurrently seeking sound relationships with new customers," it said. "All this will have to be done, notwithstanding the fact that in many fields the continuation of voluntary rationing by the producer will be necessary."

The association believes that "revitalizing" of sales forces will be a necessary task because these sales forces "have become steeped in attitudes foreign to that of selling."

"The task of reactivating the sales forces will require intensification of sales training programs, and, more pertinently, better sales training techniques," it said. "The sales staffs of many companies are depleted. A sizable recruiting job will be required. Finally, many companies will reëxamine their sales compensation methods with an eye not only to undoing some of the unhealthy practices that developed during the war, but also to devising standards that are fairer and more beneficial to both the salesman and the company."

National Bank Assets Climb to 82 Billion

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP)—The treasury announced today that 5,021 active national banks had total assets of nearly 82 billion dollars on June 30. The figure exceeded by 5.6 billions the assets reported by 5,025 national banks on March 20, the preceding call, and by 11.4 billions the amount reported by 5,042 banks on June 30, 1944.

Deposits on June 30 were nearly 77 billions, an increase since March of 5 billion 642 million or 8 per cent, and an increase of nearly 11 billions or 17 per cent since June, 1944.

Loans, Discounts Mount

Loans and discounts were 12 billion 389 millions, an increase of 1 billion 844 millions or 17½ per cent since March and an increase of 1 billion 159 millions or 10.32 per cent since June, 1944.

Investments in United States government obligations totaled 47 billion 255 millions. This was 3 billion 262 millions, or more than 7 per cent larger than the amount reported for March and was 8 billion 465 million or 22 per cent over the June, 1944 figure.

The unimpaired capital stock of the banks on June 30 was 1 billion 624 millions. Surplus was 1 billion 875 millions, undivided profits 692 millions and reserves 281 millions, or a total of 2 billion 828 millions.

FDIC Income Is 61 Million

Chairman Leo T. Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation said in his semi-annual fiscal statement that no insured bank has been placed in receivership and no bank depositor has taken a loss from the closing of an insured bank since May, 1944.

The corporation's total income was about 61 millions during the first six months of 1945. Of this 45 millions came from assessment on insured banks and 16 millions from return on investments and miscellaneous income. Expenses and deposit insurance losses amounted to about 2 millions, leaving 59 million net income transferred to surplus.

MORRIS BANKING GROUP TO ENTER AUTO FINANCING

Plans to finance retail and wholesale purchases of used and new passenger cars, trucks and buses thru "a syndicate of local banks and authorized dealers" were announced yesterday by Arthur J. Morris, founder of the Morris Plan banks.

Arthur J. Morris

American Installment Credit corporation, a subsidiary of the Morris Plan Corporation of America, will operate thru "approximately 1,200 banks," Morris said, to eliminate "the high cost of maintaining several hundred branch offices" and money will be "supplied by demand deposits on which banks pay no interest." He said the aim will be to reduce costs of financing for the consumer.

The plan also will include financing the purchase of new cars from the factory by the dealer.

● This is an invitation to you young Americans of the generation that has handled the toughest jobs of this war. Soon you'll be taking on other jobs—building good lives for yourselves and your families.

Twenty-five years ago your fathers and mothers were tackling the same task. Their hope, like yours, was to win security and a fair share of the things that make life worth while.

They looked to the railroads to deliver these good things . . . to carry raw materials from mines, forests and farms . . . to distribute the finished products of factories. In short, it was up to the railroads to provide the low-cost delivery service vital to American mass production.

To the Illinois Central this was a grave responsibility. And so, 25 years ago this month, the railroad decided that its operations should be an open book . . . that the people along its lines should know the "hows" and "whys" of running a great railroad.

On September 1, 1920, the Illinois Central began telling its story in local newspapers on its lines. The story appeared in the advertising columns, but it was not advertising to sell. It was, instead, an invitation to get acquainted . . . to know the Illinois Central and its people better . . . to be friends and neighbors, co-operating for the common good.

The first message has been followed by 300 others, one each month for 25 years in around 500 local newspapers.

And now, to you of the new generation, this 301st message renews our original invitation. We look forward to working with you, and for you, as we have worked with and for your fathers and your mothers.

JENKINS FLAYS OPA SLAUGHTER RESTRICTIONS

Says Supply Is Cut, Congress Defied

BY ROBERT YOUNG
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3—Charges that the office of price administration and the department of agriculture are openly defying congress by continuing restrictive quotas on more than 15,000 slaughterers of live stock were made today by Rep. Jenkins [R., O.], chairman of the Republican congressional food study committee. Jenkins said these quotas are the chief reason why meat is not moving into retail markets in adequate quantities.

Rep. Jenkins

Of approximately 17,000 licensed slaughterers in the United States, only a few more than 1,000 are federally inspected and not subject to restrictive quotas, Jenkins said. The other 15,000 or 16,000 operate under state inspection and are limited by the OPA as to the amount of meat they may process, he said.

Ordered Quotas Removed

Two months ago when congress was debating whether to extend the life of the OPA for another year, Jenkins recalled, it was brought out that one of the principal factors in the meat shortage was the arbitrary action of the OPA which placed quota limitations on slaughterers. Because these regulations were unfair to small processors and were creating a meat shortage even in areas of abundant live stock, congress adopted an amendment ordering the removal of such quotas, he continued.

"The wording of that law is plain and understandable," Jenkins asserted. "It states in positive terms the intention of congress that quotas restricting local slaughterers were to be removed, provided the plants are sanitary and the product clean and wholesome.

"The obvious intention of congress was to remove the strangle hold of the OPA over these small slaughterers, but when the secretary of agriculture proceeded under the new amendment he added qualifications and conditions not mentioned in the law. The effect of his action was to turn the whole slaughtering program back to the OPA."

Few Have Qualified

Jenkins said that the agriculture secretary's additional qualifications for exemption from the quotas involved proof on the part of the slaughterer that he has observed OPA price and rationing regulations and that the meat is going into legitimate trade channels. He added that apparently the agriculture secretary was concerned "far more with the perpetuation of OPA regulations than with the sanitation of the plants involved."

The congressman charged that because no slaughterer can prove he has observed OPA regulations to the satisfaction of a government agent "who does not want to be convinced," the result is that only 138 small slaughterers in the United States have qualified for the advantages of the amendment congress intended should benefit all of them and at the same time increase the meat supply.

17,000 ON STRIKE IN DETROIT; VOTE NEW FORD TIE-UP

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3 (AP)—Strikes involving nearly 17,000 workers continued in Detroit Labor day, as more CIO union members across the Detroit river served notice of intention to strike at the Windsor, Ont., plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

A United Automobile Workers official said the Ford of Canada employes voted strike action by more than a 90 per cent majority.

MARKETS REOPEN

Securities and commodities markets, closed yesterday for Labor day, will be open today as usual.

Sizable Taxes Will Continue, Vinson Warns

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 3 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Vinson today forecast sizable taxes for a long time to come and termed modernization of the federal tax structure "a basic factor in the program to reach and maintain full employment."

Even after demobilization and reconversion, the federal budget probably will run about 25 billion dollars a year, Vinson said in a Labor day address in Peoria stadium.

Some Reductions Possible

"To meet this budget, we must have sizable taxes," Vinson said, "altho we may be able to make some reductions in tax rates."

[Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], ranking minority member of the house ways and means committee, on Aug. 27 predicted a 20 per cent reduction in individual income tax rates by Jan. 1. Knutson also predicted that the excess profits tax on corporations, which now takes 95 per cent of the excess earnings of business, would be repealed this fall.]

Forecasting improvements in the tax system such as simplification and elimination of inequities, Vinson said:

"Taxes should be levied in such a way as not to deter business investment and the creation of jobs, because productive employment is the source of a high standard of living and of the revenue the government requires."

Essential to Prosperity

He said business investment will be profitable "only if the great mass of consumers take home enough money in their pay envelopes to buy the products of our expanded industrial machine."

"Taxes should be levied so as not to burden mass markets and mass purchasing power, which are essential to prosperity for all of us," he said. "Tax burdens must be equitably distributed among all people in accordance with the taxpayer's ability to pay. Tax programs must be integrated with an over-all fiscal policy designed to prevent inflation and deflation."

GEN. PRINTING INK BUYS FIRM; PLANS NEW NAME

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—General Printing Ink corporation announced today the acquisition of the A. C. Horn company, Long Island City, N. Y., producer of paints, varnish and allied products, to be operated as a division.

The announcement said G. P. I. stockholders would be asked soon to approve changing the company name to Sun Chemical corporation. It said it plans to expand its facilities in Norwood, Mass., Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles, and to construct a new plant at Houston, Tex.

HERCULES POWDER

Please give me a report on Hercules Powder company common stock.—E. H.

The stock is quoted high in relation to earnings because of growth possibilities believed to exist in connection with the company's newer industrial products. Production of commercial and military explosives was the dominant feature of its activities during the war, but eliminating the effect of the war on sales the newer lines would have constituted more than 80 per cent of its business last year.

Most of the newer lines are based on cellulose, rosin, and turpentines. Cellulose products are in increasing demand for plastics, lacquers, films, rayon, tire cord, and other uses.

Growth expectations of course are a speculative factor and so far as the immediate future is concerned profits may decline. Sales increased from $41,010,000 in 1939 to a war time peak of $122,519,000 in 1943, and the loss of war business will be reflected in sales from now on.

The share earnings, which were $3.65 in 1939, rose to $4.23 in 1943, and declined to $3.26 in 1944. In the first half of 1945 the profit was $2 a share on the 1,316,710 common shares compared with $1.46 a year earlier. Dividends in recent years have been at the yearly rate of $2.50. Stockholders in June voted to reduce the dividend rate on the 87,488 preferred shares from $6 to $5, and the stock was made noncallable prior to Nov. 15, 1950.

CHRYSLER LINE OUTPUT IN 1945 WILL BE LARGE

Keller Holds Model Details Secret

BY PHILIP HAMPSON
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3—Good news comes today from Detroit for the thousands of Chicagoans who wish to buy new Plymouths, Dodge, De Soto, and Chrysler automobiles. K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler corporation, said that before the year ends all four Chrysler divisions will be in substantial production. He believes the "average citizen" may be able to get a new car sooner than originally expected.

K. T. Keller

Even so, it will be well into next year before former A car holders may get promises of delivery from their dealers.

"We are moving as speedily as we can to start building passenger cars again," Keller said. "Until we are in substantial production we do not care to discuss details of the 1946 models. We are following our long established policy of not telling anything about our new models until we start delivering them to our dealers."

Helped Develop Atomic Bomb

Keller said that until V-J day all Chrysler divisions were in full war production. Besides producing more than 25,000 tanks, radar equipment, guns, and many other items Chrysler took a major part in the development of the atomic bomb. The corporation's large engineering staff had a notable role in the preliminary work on the weapon.

Keller emphasized the big part the automobile industry had in war production thru the contribution of its know how, based on years of experience in mass production. Little was learned from war work that can be applied to automobile production.

"We did learn something, tho," Keller said. "One of the most interesting developments took place at the Dodge-Chicago plant in Chicago in our work on engines for B-29 bombers. Aviation engine parts must have extremely high finishes, a fact that gave us some difficult problems.

Produced Higher Finish

"Much of the strength of metals is in the skin. A tiny scratch on the surface can develop the point of failure of a part. Under fatigue resulting from heavy usage, deterioration sets in at the point of the scratch and the ground is laid for a failure. We overcame the problem by finding a way to get a higher finish which largely eliminates surface defects and we can apply the lesson learned to the automobile. For one thing we will be able to make better coil springs and other parts which are subject to failure under fatigue."

Altho Chrysler officials are not discussing their 1946 models, Detroit automobile circles expect as many new developments for the Chrysler line as in the first new cars of the other manufacturers. Most of the advances over the 1942 cars announced to date are in the nature of refinements. The time has been too short to bring out sensational changes.

Chicago Jobs, Pay, Power Output Fall; Building Gains

Conflicting trends were shown in July by the eight major Chicago business indices, a tabulation by the Chicago Tribune business survey department disclosed yesterday.

Altho industrial pay rolls, employment, and electric power output were below both the June, 1945, and the July, 1944, levels, cash bus fares and building permits were higher in both comparisons. July pay rolls and employment were down 12.3 and 14.9 per cent respectively, compared with a year ago.

July fares of the surface and elevated lines were fewer than in the preceding month, but above July, 1944. Department store sales followed the same pattern. The gain over a year ago was 10.3 per cent.

The Museum of Science and Industry Thursday will present a preview of its new exhibit, "Tomorrow's Trains Today." Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company is coöperating in the presentation.

H. Gerald Nordberg has been elected a vice president of E. H. Rollins & Sons. Formerly with Rollins and recently returned from duty with the navy, he will handle institutional accounts.

Members of the American Society of Tool Engineers will be guests tonight of the Hills-McCanna company and the Chicago divisions of Dow Chemical company and Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., at a dinner in Huyler's restaurant. Dan W. Moll, Hills-McCanna vice president, will discuss magnesium.

R. E. Kennedy, personnel director of the Chicago Great Western railway, has retired and will be succeeded by Harry Boller.

We are pleased to announce the election of

Mr. H. Gerald Nordberg

as Vice-President of this Corporation

A New War Is Brewing!

Alert American business is returning to competitive manufacturing and aggressive selling and advertising far faster than most people think.

Many concerns will employ the most vigorous and heavily supported advertising in their history to help them build or protect their trade names, and market their wares.

And the public will read about with interest, and welcome with open arms, the many new improvements that science has brought about in products and materials.

We are helping a number of large American manufacturers to fight the new business war now being launched.

Perhaps we should be serving you.

BILLION SPENT BY BUSINESS TO ADVERTISE WAR

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—American business contributed more than 1 billion dollars' worth of advertising space and time during the war to "support the job of telling our people what needed to be done to speed victory," James W. Young, chairman of the War Advertising council, said today.

Business spent an estimated 350 millions for war bond promotion, 100 millions on food messages, 80 millions in support of army and navy campaigns, and 65 millions for conservation and salvage appeals, he said. The council is continuing its activities in the interest of "public understanding and coöperation thruout the reconversion period."
